'FITZ' KISSED MISS RYAN, WITNESS SAYS

Former Mayor Fitzgerald when told that one of the witnesses at the Ryan trial had testified today under oath that he had seen Mr. Fitzgerald kiss Miss Ryan one night at Ferncroft, said: "It's a lie, pure and simple."

The name of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was brought into the testimony today at the trial of the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Elizabeth M. Ryan against Harry Mansfield, proprietor of the Ferncroft Inn.

The name of the former Mayor was brought out in the cross-examination of James F. Mullen, seventy-one years old, of No. 72 St. Stephen street, a retired wine merchant. He testified that he had spent a week at Ferncroft in September, 1912.

Mullen said he and three other persons kissed Miss Ryan one night at the inn.

Attorney Coakley on cross-examination said:

"I want their names."

Attorney Sullivan: "An agreement has been entered into between Mr. Coakley and myself not to give names."

Coakley: "I insist the names be

R. C. DIXEY, RICH CLUBMAN, ENDS LIFE IN PLUNGE

Richard C. Dixey, head of one of Boston's oldest families, clubman and prominent in Back Bay life, committed suicide early today by leaping from a third-story rear window of his home, No. 44 Beacon street.

He died before a physician arrived. Medical Examiner Magrath pronounced the death a suicide.

Mr. Dixey was the father of Mrs. Gorham Brooks, wife of the deputy treasurer of Harvard College. She was formerly Miss Rosamond S. Dixey, who was one of the leading members of the Vincent Club and other organizations of the younger set.

Mr. Dixey's act was the result of acute nervous depression, which had caused him to be carefully watched.

He was in the personal care of William Mackey, his chauffeur and bodily attendant.

PLUNGED TO DEATH.

While Mackey was out of Mr. Dixey's chamber for a moment at 2:30 in the morning Mr. Dixey seized the opportunity to go to his death.

Mackey came back to an unoccupied room. His first anxious glance halted at the open window. Rushing to the window Mackey looked out and spied Mr. Dixey unconscious thirty feet below.

Mackey rushed downstairs and outdoors picked Mr. Dixey up, brought him in the house and notified the family.

Mr. Dixey is survived by his widow, who was Miss Ellen Sturgis Tappan, and by his daughter, Mrs. Brooks. He came of an old Marblehead family and had been living in the Back Bay for the past thirty-five years.

Mr. Dixey was a member of the Somerset and Tavern Clubs and had a large Summer estate at Lenox. The family has been prominent in social activities in the Berkshire seasons.

STATEMENT BY RELATIVE.

A relative of the Dixey family, gave out a statement, emphasizing that Mr Dixey's self-destruction was due to melancholia caused by illness and that his financial affairs are all right. This relative said:

"Mr. Dixey has been in ill health for several months. For the last two weeks he had been in a serious state of melancholia. The family chauffeur, William Mackey, had been a sort of attendant to him, watching his every movement and attending to all his wants.

"In some unknown manner Mr. Dixey escaped the attention of Mackey this morning, about 2:30 o'clock, went to the window, which was open, and, in one these fits of melancholia, did this act.

PLEAD AT STATE HOUSE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Governor Walsh's inaugural recommendation of immediate relief for the unemployed was unanimously indorsed at a remarkable meeting at the State House today of organized labor, settlement and social workers, organized charitable associations and public-spirited citizens.

So large was the crowd that assembled before the committee on taxation to urge the need for immediate relief that the meeting was transferred to one of the largest committee rooms in the State House.

"Governor Walsh has struck the keynote of the very desperate situation that exists in Massachusetts," said Henry Sterling, legislative agent for the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor. "In Massachusetts today there are 150,000 workmen actually out of employment and 500,000 people who are directly affected by this unemployment. Organized labor waits for the decision of this committee."

J. P. B. Jennings, representing the Boston Central Labor Union and its 60,000 members, said: "Organized labor desires immediate relief.

"Never in our thirty-two years of existence have we suffered so acutely," said James A. Howland, representing the Carpenters' Unions. "In our 7,500 members in Boston, 2,000 are out of employment."

Referring to the thousands of women out of employment, Miss Mabel Gillespie of the Women's Trade Union League said:

"We know you can't find work for them; our only hope is that you give work to the men. Woman's work depends entirely upon the money expended by men and their families, and very often the woman is the sole support of a family.

"We have found a girl working for $5 a week to support a family of five and she is working only half-time. Her father, an industrious, sober and able man, is waiting the streets from early morning to late night in search of employment."

Meyer Bloomfield, representing twenty-four settlement houses in Boston, said to the committee:

"The time has come for your to cut red tape and give the men employment at once."

E. C. Amy of the Hale House, South End, said that the 25,000 people he comes into contact with through that house were suffering more than at any time in at least twenty-five years.

Indorsement of Governor Walsh's plan was pronounced by Edmund J. Martin for the South End Board of Trade.

Miss Helena Dudley of the Denison House, Miss Adaline Moffit of the Neighborhood Houses, B. Preston Clark of the Denison House and John D. Adams of the Denison House were among the other speakers. Former Representative John L. Saltonstall told of the favor with which the plan is viewed by the organized charities of Boston.

U. S. NOTIFIED ENGLAND WILL SEIZE THE DACIA

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—The British government today notified the State Department that it would not waive the right of seizure in the case of the former Hamburg-American steamer Dacia.

Great Britain also refused this government's request that the vessel be permitted to make one voyage with cotton from the United States to Germany without the voyage being considered a precedent establishing the right of German ships to be transferred to the American flag.

Ambassador Page, at London, stated that the British Foreign Office refused to make an exception in the Dacia case on the broad ground that it would be setting a dangerous precedent, despite the suggestion of this government that the Dacia would discharge her cargo at Rotterdam, Holland, instead of Bremen as was originally planned.

TWO SURPRISES IN TROLLEY PRIMARY

Two big surprises resulted from yesterday's primary election by the Boston Carmen's Union, the result of which was announced today. Matthew J. Higgins was defeated in his candidacy for re-election as president and Matthias J. Scudale in his contest for re-election as business agent. Higgins was defeated by Thomas G. Berry of Division 8, the vote being 2,191 to 691. Scudale was beaten by Thomas F. Shine of Division 6, the latter receiving 3,647 votes to 1,211 for Scudale.

For vice-president, Philip A. Corbett, Division 10, got 1,732 votes and James J. Conroy, Division 9, got 1,573. Ernest Ferrarini was the choice for financial secretary and treasurer, and John W. Hurley for recording secretary.

The final election will be held next Monday. It has been made necessary, owing to the action of the main organization of street railway employes, which recently ruled that the election held several weeks ago was void because liquor was used.

VIOLENT NEW EARTHQUAKE DAMAGES CALABRIA TOWNS; INHABITANTS FLEE IN TERROR

ROME, Jan. 19.—A violent earthquake shock occurred early today at Cassanza, a city of more than 20,000 inhabitants in Calabria, only twelve miles east of the Mediterranean.

The shock was also perceptible at Speranzo, Castiglione and Arrialiate, according to a dispatch from Tasignano.

Heavy damage is reported to have been caused in the entire province of Catanzaro, but reports received here up to noon gave no definite details as to loss of life, though the dispatches carried rumors that a number of persons had perished.

Today's earthquake shock was preceded by severe at Lorsi, about midnight, 5-6 Country Mass scenes were [illegible] there are a number of [illegible] inhabitants buried in the ruins. Lorsi is a town of 3,000 inhabitants, and the people were terrified by the shock.

They fled in panic to the open fields at the first warning. It is believed the loss of life would have been heavy there if it had not been for the recent disaster, remembering which the residents quickly left the town.

Several of the public buildings at Lorsi were badly damaged, and there was also damage at Paola, Cosenzi[illegible], Rossano and Amantea, but preliminary reports received here said that there had been no loss of life at these towns.

As news of the earthquake was circulated in Calabria, which has been the scene of many earthquakes practically all the people of that southern region were convinced of [illegible] disaster. This [illegible] they are [illegible] fields rather than return to their homes.

HEAT WAVE BREAKS JAN. 19 RECORD

Today was the warmest January 19 on record in Boston. Balmy breezes swept over the city, giving thousands a taste of Spring in mid-Winter. The heat in downtown buildings was oppressive.

Today's temperature rose from 55 at midnight to 60 at 8 a. m., and reached 62 later.

The record for the month of January is 70 degrees, reached on New Year's Day, 1906.

FEAR ZEPPELIN RAID ON PARIS

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 19.—A private dispatch from Berlin today reports that a Zeppelin airship sailed over Paris yesterday, and that an aerial bombardment of the French capital is soon to begin. The new German drive at Soissons, which is the nearest point in the German line to Paris, may be a part of this plan, it being the report-ed intention of the Germans to advance as near to the French capital as possible to Paris, because of the limitations of the Zeppelins in point of distance. Many such excursions have been active, bitterly cold weather has not appeared in the daytime.

GERMANS CAPTURE KIELCE; RELIEVE CRACOW PRESSURE

LONDON, Jan. 19.—France today is still the first theatre of war.

Increasing activity along the entire battle front from the coast to Alsace, the concentration of German reinforcements in the centre, and reconnoissance by a Zeppelin over Paris are the important features in the latest dispatches from Paris and other news centres.

The Paris official statement today says that French troops have recaptured their former position at Labeleille, the little hamlet twenty miles northeast of Amiens, which was the centre of severe hand-to-hand fighting on Sunday and Monday.

Northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, where the French are assailing the Germans attempting to cross the Meuse, General Joffre's troops have captured a new field work in the forest of La Pretre, now holding 300 yards of German trenches.

Berlin says of the situation at the front that there is little change.

In Poland the occupation of Kielce by the Germans, reported by special correspondence from Warsaw and Breslau, relieves Cracow from the Russian offensive, and forces the Czar's lines to retire to the base at Rodam, fifty miles or so to the north.

Berlin's official announcement today records a triple repulse for the Russians in northern Poland. At Radzonow, Czeshun and Sierpes, the Russians were repulsed with heavy losses, including many prisoners.

An official statement comes from Nish that a new Austrian army is attempting an invasion of Servia.

In Transylvania the Russian invaders are pushing rapidly westward. Invasion of Hungary may be begun without serious opposition.

In Galicia Vienna reports Russians driven out of three miles of trenches in disorder by artillery fire east of Szikleryn.

In Turkey the Russians are driving remnants of shattered Turkish army toward Erzerum, rear guard actions continuing today. Adrianople is reported completely evacuated by the Turkish garrison.

100 MILES OF BATTLE

The situation in France is outlined in Paris dispatches today, which say that over approximately 100 miles of the great 375-mile battle front in West Flanders, France and upper Alsace fighting of more or less violence is in progress. The critical points lie east of Amiens, north of Soissons, and in the Argonne, although dispatches from St. Omar say that a vigorous artillery duel is again in progress in Belgium.

After the Germans lost La Boisselle (twenty miles northeast of Amiens) to the French the Kaiser's forces opened a brisk cannonade against the fallen villages. They are also bombarding the French position at St. Paul on the Aisne.

ENORMOUS LOSSES.

Four German aviators who were taken at Bar-Le-Duc (twenty-five miles south of Verdun), were trying to bombard the French lines of communication from the air when they were shot down.

The army of General von Herringen is co-operating with that of General Von Kluck over a front of forty-two miles long on the Aisne stretching from Tracy-le-Val to Berry-au-Bac. Their attempts to pierce the French line at that point have been accompanied with enormous losses.

At Bourseilles, west of Verdun, the Germans of the army of the Crown Prince have made a fresh series of unsuccessful attempts to work their way southward. Verdun is their objective, but the ultimate object is to open the door of the Meuse so that the Germans can sweep southward and attack the rear of the forces from St. Mihiel to the upper Alsace.

In Champagne and in the Argonne siege operations continue, varied at intervals with artillery exchanges. The weather is very bad in that section and in the Vosges snow is from two to four feet deep. A regular blizzard has swept the trenches.

At Nieuport and Ypres, in West Flanders, the German guns are almost constantly in action and the same is true of the eastern end of the battle line where the Germans have been carrying on a bombardment of the French positions at Thann.

The British military authorities at Ypres state that 125 residents of the city have been killed in the German bombardment. Of the 5,000 residents of Ypres 2,000 refuse to leave their homes. It is said that food is abundant in the town and that prices are normal.

BATTLE NEAR MLAWA.

Dispatches today from Petrograd say that the bloodiest fighting that has occurred in battle-racked Poland has been in progress in and around Mlawa for four days. The ruins of the little North Poland town, practically destroyed by the artillery fire of the opposing Russian and German troops, on Sunday changed hands three times but they are now held by the Russians, who have thrown back toward the East Prussian border the German forces that attempted to advance upon Novo Georgievsk.

In southern Poland heavy reinforcements received by the German forces have forced a change in the Russian front. After the Germans had burned the forest west of Kielce, in order to drive out the Russian battleries posted there, the Czar's forces were withdrawn from Kielce as the position of that town was of no strategic advantage.

This confirms the Russian dispatches received in Berlin saying the Germans have captured Kielce.

In their new front stretching along the upper Vistula and west of Ivangorod and Warsaw the Russians hold positions that can be taken at only enormous costs, the Petrograd military experts say.

ADMIT GERMAN GAINS.

They make no effort to minimize the fact that in western and southern Poland the Germans have made important gains, but assert that the Vistula river presents an obstacle that the Germans will be unable to surmount. With the Russians advancing toward Thorn and Soldau, they also declare, the Germans will be compelled to weaken their forces upon their other fronts which will compel them to abandon any idea of a drive at Ivangorod.

This is the first hint that the German offensive in Poland is also aimed at Ivangorod. That this possibility is even considered in Petrograd shows that the Germans have made more progress than their official reports have claimed.

It is admitted that the situation in Galicia is not all that might be desired. The Austrian defense of Cracow is believed to have been stiffened by the arrival of German troops. These are said to have been transferred from Belgium to the Galician front.

The German version of the situation in Russian Poland is given in the dispatches from Breslau printed in the Berlin papers today. They Kielce and Opoczno, two important towns of Russian Poland, have been captured by the Germans. Though these messages were passed by the German censor, no official announcement of the taking of these towns had been issued by the Berlin War Office up to the time this dispatch was sent.

Of Opoczno and Kielce, the possession of the latter is of more importance to the Germans, as it controls the railroad running from Ivangorod into southwestern Poland, which is necessary for the transportation of Russians into that district for the campaign against Cracow.

The pursuit of the Turkish troops fleeing before the Russians in the Caucasus is being pressed with great vigor despite the severe weather prevailing there, according to Petrograd advices.

The Russian troops are now only sixty miles from Erzerum, whose garrison is said to have been reduced to 5,000 men in order to reinforce the Turks defeated at Ardahan, Sarikamysh and Kara Ugan.

A Tiflis dispatch reports that two trains carrying 2,283 Turkish prisoners arrived there Sunday while yesterday there arrived at Sari-Kamysh 1,730 wounded and unwounded prisoners, eleven field guns, fifteen mountain guns, fourteen rapid-fire guns and a vast quantity of ammunition and supplies taken from the Turks at Kara Ugan.

The Petrograd Bourse Gazette's Tiflis correspondent says that the German-trained Turks seemed to recent disaster in their Caucasus operations. He telegraphs as follows:

"They invited their fate by offering battle only twenty miles from the scene of their earlier reverses. It seems that the Russian victory was due to a few companies sent forward to arrest the Turkish advance on Sari-Kamysh at whatever cost pending the arrival of the main Russian force.

"Two companies from Hassankali posted in the mountains repulsed desperate Turkish attacks for several days and nights though they were almost buried in snow. Seven companies and two batteries held the Turkish centre while the Russians were outflanking the enemy.

"Kara Ugan was a repetition of Sari-Kamysh. The Turks were completely outmanoeuvred."

GUTIERREZ CALLS VILLA MURDERER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Why General Eulalio Gutierrez broke with General Francisco Villa, abandoned office as Provisional President of Mexico, and fled from Mexico City in the small hours of Saturday morning, is told in a long narrative written by Gutierrez and cabled to Washington today. It is a sensational story, teeming with charges against Villa and Emiliano Zapata.

They are accused of murdering prominent Mexicans and of conducting robbery and pillage. In desperation, Gutierrez, according to his own account, was obliged to flee from the capital.

He had sought aid from the Carranza forces to help him resist the control that Villa and Zapata had established over every branch of the government, making Gutierrez a mere figurehead, and he declares he feared this action would be discovered and that he would be put to death.

The narrative was written by President Gutierrez on the eve of his departure from the Mexican capital. It is in the form of a proclamation or manifesto that General Gutierrez promised to publish when he sent his three emissaries to General Obregon and Aguilar with a proposition for combination with them and Generals Robles and Blanco against the Villistas and Zapatistas.

A copy of the Gutierrez proclamation, which was not promulgated because General Obregon arrived the emissaries, was captured with the emissaries and sent to the Carranza government at Vera Cruz.

General Carranza cabled the full text of the Gutierrez proclamation to Senor Rilalo Arredondo, chief of the Carranza agency in Washington, and its contents have been brought to the attention of Secretary Bryan.

Prayer Offered for Peace in Europe by Pope Benedict XV.

ROME, Jan. 19.—Pope Benedict XV. has addressed to all the prelates and priests of Europe a prayer for peace. It follows:

"Appalled by the horrors of war into which peoples and nations have been plunged to their ruin, we seek refuge in Your hearts, O Jesus, as the only place of safety.

"From You, O Merciful God, we implore a cessation of this immense and cruel hecatomb. From You, O King of Peace, we desire a place to which we may hasten with our woes.

"From Your Divine heart You irradiated charity on earth, in order that every dissension might be removed, and that only peace should reign among men.

"While on earth You had throbs of the tenderest compassion for human misfortunes.

"Have pity on so many mothers in agony over the fate of their children, on unfortunate Europe over which such a calamity impends.

"Inspire, O Jesus, the rulers of peoples with counsels of tenderness to settle the dissensions which are lacerating nations, so that once more men will exchange the kiss of peace.

"We appeal to You, who at price of your blood made them brothers. As one day, in the imploring cry of 'Save us, Lord, or we are lost,' You answered by calming the gale, so may You answer to our confiding prayer today by restoring peace and tranquillity in this world.

"You, too, most Holy Virgin, as in other trying times, help us, protect us, save us."

Woman Accuses Man as Burglar

Miss Mabel C. Reid accused William A. Farrell in the corridor of the Brookline District Court today of being the man who broke into her apartment at No. 190 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, yesterday and prostrated her with a blow in the face. He denied the charge.

Farrell, who says he is twenty-four years old and that he lives at No. 204 Pearl street, Cambridge, came to court for a continued hearing on the charge that on January 11 he had broken into the house at No. 1060 Beacon street, Brookline. Judge Parker discharged him on the Brookline complaint, but Farrell was re-arrested by Patrolman Ochs of the East Dedham street station on the woman's charge.

Miss Reid says that after the burglar struck her he ran away with jewelry.

REPORT BRITISH SEIZED U. S. SHIP

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A news agency dispatch received here today states that Captain Farley of the American steamship Greenbrier, now in Bremen harbor, has protested to the American State Department against the treatment accorded him by a British warship. When nearing the German coast on December 30 with a cargo of cotton, says the news agency dispatch, the Greenbrier was halted by a shot across her bows.

A British officer boarded the ship and as soon as he had gone through her papers he signalled for more men. A prize crew is said to have been sent aboard the Greenbrier and the American flag hauled down.

Captain Farley said he was ordered from the bridge and the British seamen took complete possession of the ship. After three days the British allowed the American flag to be raised again and the ship was allowed to proceed on her way. The Greenbrier sailed from New Orleans on December 10.

KING RESCUES QUAKE ORPHANS AS QUEEN'S AID TRAIN ARRIVES

ROME, Jan. 19.—After a sixteen-hour automobile trip through the earthquake zone, King Victor Emmanuel returned to Rome early today, bringing in his motor car six orphan children whom he had found being cared for by the soldiers at Avezzano. The little refugees were turned over to the officials of the Quirinal hospital. They will be educated at the King's expense.

The King found that the relief measures being taken in the earthquake district were highly satisfactory and shortly after his return he sent a personal message of commendation to those in charge. In the ruins he witnessed the rescue of thirteen persons who had been entombed in the debris for five days and saw arrive a relief train equipped from the private funds of Queen Helena. This train carried food, clothing and medical supplies in addition to 4,000 tents.

LOSS OF LIFE 55,000.

The latest reports to Premier Salandra have increased the death list in the earthquake to 55,000. As only seven towns and villages remain to be heard from, it is believed that the total number of deaths will not be more than 55,000.

Conditions in the earthquake zone are being rapidly restored to normal. This has been partly effected by the rebuilding of railroad lines destroyed by the shocks. In this work the troops that had been held ready for war were of immense advantage. The engineering corps has won the personal commendation of General Zupelli.

LOOTERS SHOT BY TROOPS.

Looting of the earthquake ruins has been discovered at Avezano and the large force of soldiers now aiding the relief work there have received orders from their commander to shoot on sight any thief caught stalking among the desolated homes.

Two men endeavoring to enter the building at Avezzano formerly occupied by a branch of the bank of Naples were shot dead in their tracks. Thousands of dollars in gold and banknotes are believed to be yet in the ruins of this and two other banks.

With the estimate of dead remaining at 55,000 and the money loss conservatively placed at $60,000,000, all Italy is making every response to forward relief measures. The members of the royal family, deputies and visiting Americans of prominence are laboring daily almost to the point of exhaustion. Scores of Americans have motored to the devastated towns to lend aid among the ruins.

First of all knock out the hindrance to health, then vigor of body and mind naturally follows.

Thousands, finding coffee a hindrance, have struck it from their daily diet and now use

POSTUM

Coffee contains a powerful irritant—caffeine—which first races the body functions to unnatural speed, and then leaves them in a state of exhaustion. Result—weak heart, nervousness, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness and many other ills and discomforts.

Postum—made only of prime wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses—is a pure food-drink, absolutely free from caffeine or any other drug or harmful substance.

Postum has delightful flavour, and comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled, 15c and 25c packages; Instant Postum—soluble, made in the cup instantly, 30c and 50c tins. The cost per cup is about the same for both kinds.

Suppose you leave off coffee ten days and try Postum—and better health.

IDA M. TARBELL RAPS SUFFRAGE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—That suffrage is not a panacea for working women was the view expressed today by Miss Ida M. Tarbell, assailant of the Standard Oil Company, in testifying before the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations.

"Women get lower wages than men because they are unskilled and are regarded as temporary employes," said Miss Tarbell. "Suffrage might help, but I am not sure. Personally, I do not want to see women get mixed up in politics. Most men I know favor suffrage for women, as is the women themselves who will have to keep it away. The greatest help for women workers has come in States where they do not vote."

Miss Tarbell said that the era was at hand when industries would be run upon a scientific plan.

REVOLUTION IN INDUSTRY.

"I mean by that," she said, "the kind of management which gives the workingman a chance. A silent revolution is going on in American industry. There is a growing appreciation of the common man, the working man. He is rising up. The most deplorable feature of labor today is that a man gets into a rut when he gets a job in a factory. He does not advance. Under scientific management there will be a co-operative system by which men who work in brief spells in plants will get a chance to advance."

Miss Tarbell declared that the old idea about work and wages was passing in this country and that people would no longer work from sunrise to sunset.

"Wages are going up and the hours are going down," said she.

Miss Tarbell lauded Henry Clay Frick for adopting a policy of "safety first" in his mines near Pittsburgh. On the other hand, she scored the United States Steel Corporation. "The eight-hour day applies to only about 11 per cent. of the workers," said she.

SAYS STEEL STORES CUT PRICE.

"During my investigations in the steel and coke regions of Pennsylvania during the past ten years," she said, "I have found that the cost of living has increased more than the wages of the men, but in stores operated by the Steel Corporation in the Pittsburgh district I find meat from two to three cents lower per pound than in stores in neighboring towns."

Chairman Walsh of the commission read reports in which it was stated that of the Steel Corporation had paid dividends of 30 per cent. a year.

Miss Una Clayton Gives Talk on Milk

Miss Una Clayton, who is appearing in the pure food playlet, "Milk," at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week, gave a lecture at 11 a. m. today before several hundred invited guests, under the auspices of the Milk and Baby Hygiene Association and the Consumers' League. In addition to her talk on pure milk for babies, Miss Clayton exhibited two special moving pictures, one entitled "The Man Who Learned," and the other being a splendid object lesson as regards the right and wrong way of bringing up a baby.

SAYS 'FITZ' KISSED 'TOODLES'

Former Mayor's Name Brought Into Breach of Promise Case.

given as the witness is telling a flat lie."

Coakley (after talking to Miss Ryan): "Some the gentlemen—"

Mullen: "Frank Hall, John F. Fitzgerald, Gus Seeley."

Q—Is the John F. Fitzgerald the ex-Mayor of Boston? A—Yes.

TELLS OF MARRIAGE TALK.

Mullen said he knew Mansfield and Miss Ryan met there. He talked with Miss Ryan about twenty times while there. He said he met her once afterwards at a dinner and was friendly with her. The subject of marriage between Miss Ryan and Mansfield was discussed, he said.

Q—Tell us, Mr. Mullen, in your own way, what she said? A—We used to sit on the piazza nights. I said, "Bessie, this is an awful life for you to be leading. Why don't you get married and settle down? Why don't you marry Mr. Mansfield? He's a good fellow. She said she would not marry Mr. Mansfield. And then she exclaimed: 'I'm going to end this life the first of January.'

"I said: 'What are you going to do?'

She said she would not marry him. She further said: 'I going to get through here the first of January.' I said: 'What are you going to do then?' She said: 'I'm going to the devil.'

Q—Did you borrow $25 from Pat Bowen?

Sullivan: "I object; this is not material. And another thing, who is Pat Bowen?"

Coakley: "You know who he is, he'll be here."

Sullivan: "I don't think this ought to be admitted, but so long as Pat is to be here, go ahead."

Q—Did you go to Pat Bowen and say you had to get a check for $25?

A—I worked for Pat Bowen.

Q—Did you borrow $25 from him? A—No.

Q—Didn't you come away fifth $25? Sullivan: "I object."

JUDGE HAS BORROWED.

Judge Fessenden: "I don't consider it wrong for a man to borrow money. I've borrowed money myself."

Sullivan: "As an officer of this court I object to this procedure."

Judge Fessenden: "I am obliged to say I've been short myself and had to borrow money."

Coakley (to Sullivan): "If you shut up I'll go on with this case."

Sullivan, smiling, sat down.

Q—Did you tell Pat Bowen you were broke and needed money? A—No.

Q—Did you tell Pat Bowen that Mr. Mansfield owed you money or was under obligations to you?

Sullivan: "I object, on account of the witness' age."

Q—Didn't you borrow money from Mr. Mansfield? A—Yes.

Q—How much? A—$200.

Chief Olson, Harry K. Mansfield's valet at the Ferncroft Inn, under cross-examination testified he had seen the plaintiff king an inn employe named Morrill, and that he had seen card playing at the inn.

Asked if he had ever served drinks to Mansfield and Morrill "when they were playing at the roulette tables," Olson answered:

"I don't remember."

On direct examination Olson had testified that he had heard Miss Ryan say: "Harry wants me to marry him, I won't; he's a big fool." Previously, Mrs. Grace Dunbar of Dorchester, a friend of Miss Ryan, testified that she had never heard the plaintiff use a vulgar word and that "nothing of impurity ever came from her lips" while at the home of the witness.

CAN'T DEFINE UNSOPHISTICATED.

Mrs. Dunbar was asked if she would understand the meaning of the word "unsophisticated" as applied to a woman, and she said she would. When asked for a definition of unsophisticated as applied to Miss Ryan, Mrs. Dunbar said she didn't "know how to word it to suit any of you."

"Don't try to," said Attorney Sullivan, counsel for Mansfield.

Olson was cross-examined by Attorney Coakley, counsel for Miss Ryan. The courtroom was crowded, and there was a throng in the corridors.

Q—You served drinks? A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever serve drinks to Mr. Mansfield and Mr. Morrill when they were playing at the roulette tables? A—I don't remember.

Q—Did you ever see anybody playing cards at the inn? A—I saw people playing cards.

Q—Did you ever see Mr. Morrill playing cards? A—I don't remember.

Q—Then all you saw Mr. Morrill do was walk to the bungalow with Miss Ryan? A—Yes.

Aged Witness Tells of Week's Visit at Ferncroft and Talks With Miss Ryan.

Q—Will you say he kissed Miss Ryan? A—I do.

Q—Do you mean to tell this jury that's all you ever saw them do. A—Yes.

Q—What do you mean by the office? A—The office on the ground floor of the inn.

Q—What kind of a place is the office? A—It is quite a large room.

TELLS ABOUT KISSING.

Attorney Sullivan to re-direct examination asked the witness if at some time he saw Miss Ryan and Morrill kiss. The witness replied in the affirmative.

Q—Was it after breakfast? A—It was some time in the forenoon.

Timothy F. Mahoney, chauffeur, was recalled to finish his testimony, which was interrupted last week when Mahoney displayed lack of memory. After five minutes on the stand today he was again excused when the answer to Attorney Sullivan he said:

"My mind is a blank. My head is turning around. I don't know."

Judge Fessenden said: "I think the witness should not testify while in this condition. He might be able to resume later."

MAHONEY EXCUSED.

Mahoney was then allowed to step down from the witness stand.

When Mahoney went on the stand Attorney Sullivan told the jury that an agreement had been reached between him and Coakley that the reports of an investigator who followed and watched Mahoney should be used in the examination of the witness.

Attorney Coakley said: "From the moment that Mahoney was pointed out to Miss Ryan in the courtroom, I had him followed every moment until Thursday night."

After a number of questions this was asked:

Q—Your mind is not much better is it? A—My mind is a blank. My head is turning around. I don't know.

Attorney Sullivan: "I don't want to examine this witness in this condition, both from humanity's side and from his physical condition."

Then Mahoney was excused.

PIERCE'S NAME BROUGHT IN.

The name of Superintendent Pierce of the Boston police department was brought into the testimony today.

Irving Benson of Boston, testifying as a defence witness, declared he had formerly been employed as a chauffeur by Mansfield. He said that on a trip on which he drove the machine there were two men on the back seat. He said Miss Ryan was in the car.

Benson said he "understood" one of the two men was "Crosby, a Boston jeweler," and that the other was Superintendent Pierce.

Q—The two men on the back seat on the trip when Mansfield said he told you not to take her in the auto with them"—was one man a jeweler? A—I understood so.

Q—Were the names used? A—Yes.

Q—Was one—the jeweler—a Boston jeweler? A—I think so.

Q—Was his name Crosby and was the other man a police official—was Superintendent Pierce of the Boston police department? A—I understood so.

BROUGHT THEM TO INN.

Q—And did you bring them to the inn? A—Yes.

Benson testified that he saw nothing improper in the conduct of Miss Ryan on this trip or at any other time. Attorney Sullivan objected and Attorney Coakley said:

"We will have all the names now. You can't suggest that Miss Ryan did improper things with your friends and keep the names quiet. We will have all the names. You can't eat cake and keep it too."

Benson further testified that on the trip to Nahtasket some one in the automobile ordered him to go to the Breaden Cheese Tree club and that it was the same club as Ferncroft.

He said he saw nothing improper in the conduct of Miss Ryan at the Breaden Cheese Inn.

NEW HAVEN HEAD CONSULTS WALSH

President Howard Elliott of the New Haven road and Joseph B. Russell, a director, conferred with Governor Walsh today on the New England railroad situation.

Governor Walsh said the discussion "had to do with what is being done in the other New England States, particularly in Rhode Island and Connecticut, toward a readjustment of New Haven finances."

Governor Walsh said he contemplated no special message on the subject. He intimated that the special investigation by the Public Service Commission might become the basis of remedial legislation.

Says Tree-Sprayers Are Killing Bees

The busy little bees are turning up their toes by the millions, and arsenate of lead is responsible, so Frank W. Frisbee of North Andover told the Committee on Agriculture at the State House today. Improper spraying of fruit trees was said to be the cause. Professor A. R. Jenks, a horticulturist, disagreed with Mr. Frisbee.

Mr. Frisbee wants to prohibit the spraying of fruit trees in blossom. He said bee colonies were worth from $800 to $1,000.

Report Norwegian Steamship Ashore

Dispatches received here today report the Norwegian steamer Grib, which sailed from Boston for Chesapeake Bay two days ago, as being ashore two and one half miles north of Pope's Island, off Lewis, Delaware. Apparently the vessel is undamaged.

SAYS 'LOANS' HOLD CITY MEN IN GRIP

"Some of the men who work for the city for $15 or $20 a week will never get out of the clutches of the money-lenders, who line the corridors of City Hall like harpies on a pay day," Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan told the legislative Committee on Cities today in support of Mayor Curley's bill to prevent city employes from making assignment of their wages.

E. Harry Brown, recently deposed as state supervisor of small loan agencies, said the conditions in Boston were "unspeakably better" than when he first went into office. He said that in one prosecution he began he found the Judge of the district court to be counsel for the money lender. He favored a state-wide law on the general lines proposed by Mayor Curley.

Women Ask Curley for Recognition

Demands that Mayor Curley give more recognition to the women of Boston in his boom Boston movements were made in a formal letter sent him by the Women's Board of Trade today.

The Women's Trade Union League also sent the Mayor copies of resolutions requesting that he take some steps to relieve unemployed women, as well as helping out-of-work men.

Mayor Curley's reasons for ignoring the women on trade matters were not made public, but he declared that the city itself is now employing 100 extra women in the bath department.

Plans for Unemployed.

The Dorchester Board of Trade will meet in its Fields Corner rooms tonight to plan a citizens' meeting for benefiting the unemployed.

Why Cadum Is Good for Skin Diseases

The important thing in treating many skin diseases is to keep water away from the inflamed parts and make the covering as air tight as possible. This, according to a very distinguished New York physician, seems to kill the germ and set up the healing process quickly. Cadum is the well-known skin remedy, supplies that kind of a covering and keeps out the air. This covering consists of petrolatum and white wax, which does not irritate. The other ingredients of Cadum are zinc oxide, which dries up the oozing and comes from the sores, and oil of cade, which is one of the oldest and best-known remedies for Eczema. Physicians everywhere employ oil of cade more often, perhaps, than any other one thing in treating eczema. Cadum costs 10c for a trial box, while the 25c box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size.

A HOME REMEDY FOR DYSPEPSIA

In view of the well known fact that probably over ninety per cent. of all stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulence, etc., is either directly or indirectly due to acidity, or, as it is commonly called, "sour stomach," it is evident that correction and prevention of this condition entirely on neutralizing the acid and stopping the fermentation. For this purpose there is nothing better than a teaspoonful of ordinary bisurated magnesia in a little water immediately after eating or whenever gas is felt. This immediately neutralizes the acid, stops the fermentation and prevents the formation of gas. The daily use of bisurated magnesia, the well-known use of bismuth and magnesia, by physicians and in the hospitals for the past quarter century, and which druggists now supply in 5 grain tablets, 2 of which are equivalent to a teaspoonful of the ordinary powder form.—Advertisement.

ORDERS TO CLEAN UP CHINATOWN

These are the orders:

Every building must be equipped with two ways of entering and leaving, one in front and one in back.

All sewer pipe openings must be permanently closed. By means of such openings in cellars, it is claimed, gamblers have been able during police raids to throw gaming implements wholesale into the sewers.

All swinging gas fixtures must be replaced with stationary fixtures.

The fire sprinkler system must be installed in every building occupied by eight or more families.

Every basement must be ventilated to the satisfaction of the health board.

Every basement must have proper exits and entrances.

All stairways must be thoroughly repaired.

All fire balconies must be repaired, and buildings lacking these must immediately install them.

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by neutralizing the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

H., Jan. 19.—Miss Alma Talbot, twenty-nine, tried to kill herself by cutting her throat with a bread knife in the kitchen of her home on Merrimack street, this city, after her parents and two brothers had gone to bed. Today the doctors said she would die. For some time her father, John Talbot, and her brothers, all of whom are carpenters, have been out of work, and this fact is said to have brought on a fit of despondency during which the young woman attempted suicide.

Mrs. John W. Gates Ill in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Mrs. John W. Gates, widow of the famous speculator and mother of the late Charles G. Gates, is seriously ill in her suite in the Plaza Hotel. Doctors Fellowes, Davis and S. W. Lambert say she is suffering from a throat affection which stubbornly contests correction.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an effective remedy that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else had failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored so perfectly that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, please cut out this formula and hand to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home, and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, the ringing, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing usually returns as the second and third doses of this tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and nasal dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are often entirely overcome by this effective treatment. Nearly always, no matter how severe the case, and no matter how long standing the catarrh, these distressing head noises and deafness may be restored by this simple home treatment.

Any person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

100 MEN PROBE BREAD SITUATION

"Our chief competitor is the housewife," was the statement of half a dozen bakers who, at conference called in the State House by Commissioner of Weights and Measures Thure Hanson to consider the bread situation, discussed the probability of an increased price of bread.

The bakers agree that it was impossible, buying flour at the present price, to sell bread as it has been sold up to date. They predicted a shrinkage in size of the five-cent loaf from about twenty-six ounces to about eight ounces, and of the ten-cent loaf from about twenty-six ounces to about eighteen ounces.

Commissioner Hanson has been investigating the bread situation, and plans to have a hundred men at work on it for the rest of the month. But he told the master bakers: "You people are not violating the law—except in an occasional technical sense. Out of forty-four loaves bought and weighed in one town, forty were well over weight, and the other four weighed just the legal amount."

Facts brought out at the meeting were that:

Housewives ask for a five-cent loaf or a ten-cent loaf without bothering about the weight.

An increase of one cent in price means the baker will lose 16 per cent. of his trade.

Bread cannot be sold twelve ounces for five cents or twenty-six ounces for ten cents if the price of flour holds up.

The Massachusetts law on bread provides it must be sold by the quarter loaf, half-loaf, three-quarter loaf, or full loaf. These must weigh at least eight, sixteen, twenty-four and thirty-two ounces respectively. The seller must have a sign in his store telling how his bread is sold.

There is no legal provision that fixes the price of bread.

One baker gave this table, showing how he figures the cost to him:

50 pounds flour	$0.50
Flour pounds salt	.02
Two and a half pounds yeast	.10
Seven pounds lard	.14
One and a half pounds malt	.03
Six pounds sugar	.12
Ten pounds flour	.20
Commission to drivers	.50
	2.30

This does not include rent, light, fuel, interest, milk and profit. Nor does it include horse keep and wagon repair. This amount of dough would yield at most $19.50; and the expense comes within eighty-five cents of that figure.

$250,000 Suit Near Trial Henderson's Son to Fight

Miss Elizabeth Garmong, who is suing John B. Henderson for $250,000 heart balm.

Will Oppose Plea for Balm of Former Des Moines Girl at Bangor, Maine.

BANGOR, Jan. 19.—The suit of Miss Elizabeth Garmong, formerly of Des Moines, later of Washington and Philadelphia, but now a resident of Bangor, against John B. Henderson, son of the late Senator from Iowa, a Washington clubman and millionaire, is expected to be called in the Superior Court here today.

Miss Garmong claims that she met Mr. Henderson in Bar Harbor a few years ago and that he asked her to become his wife. He refused to keep his promise, the plaintiff says, and she now sues for $250,000.

It is expected that Miss Garmong will tell on the stand of several years of friendship in the course of which she brought suit against Henderson in the Supreme Court for Hancock County, Maine, to establish the paternity of a child, the verdict going against her.

Mr. Henderson makes a complete denial of the allegations in the writ, and has retained eminent counsel.

Miss Garmong is thirty-five years old and her acquaintance with Henderson began seven years ago. In 1908 she left her home in Des Moines to study medicine in Baltimore and afterwards assisted in the Rush hospital crusade against tuberculosis at Philadelphia.

Her blue-eyed, golden-haired daughter, Mary, named, Miss Garmong says, after Henderson's mother, was born in Washington in 1910 and since then she has had to support both herself and child. Because of its birth she says her family disowned her. She is working in a family near Bremer, Me.

The suit to establish the paternity of little Mary was tried at Ellsworth in 1911. Henderson is forty-three years old, a lawyer and a Harvard graduate.

Big Exposition to Be Dream of Beauty

Each Decoration Forms Part of Gorgeous Whole

(From the January Harper's Bazar.)

INSTEAD of limiting the possibilities of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, the great war is bettering them. Not only have the countries now fighting refused to give up their space, but at least one has asked for more and has widened the scope of her original exhibition.

The directors of the fair are very sure that thousands of people who would originally go to Europe will this year go to the Western coast. Their mental arithmetic is impressive. They estimate that the people of the United States spend two hundred million dollars yearly in Europe. As they cannot go abroad for many months, this money, argue the directors, will be spent at the fair, for the American public must travel.

Everything is being done to take care of a crowd that will far outnumber that of any of our previous "World's Fairs." And this wonderful Western exposition will rival in other ways all those that have gone before.

The beauty of its surroundings and buildings will impress the visitor from the very beginning, for not only form but color has been called upon to create a most rare and complete loveliness. The buildings at Chicago were all white; at St. Louis color was introduced but sparingly; in San Francisco every square yard of the whole composition, from the red roofs above to the tan shale underfoot, is part of a glorious scheme, which blends with the blue of the bay and the masses of California flowers and shrubs. Jules Guerin, whose official title is Chief of Color and Decoration, has devoted two years of his career to the development of his artistic conception. He has refused to paint even one decoration, but has been content to let others display their genius.

The entire group of buildings is the work of certain of our most noted architects and sculptors; distinguished men, and women, too, who have taken the greatest delight in carrying out the plans of the master mind.

All the buildings from the stairs to foundations, the sculpture, and the walls which enclose the whole group are constructed of stone, tinted the rich ivory yellow of the Roman Forum.

One reason for the elimination of white is that the glare of the sun would be unpleasant to the eyes. The encompassing wall will also counteract the brightness of the sun's rays. The sculpture for the fountains and water effects are developed in antique bronze, while the highest domes soaring above the wall will be of gold and the lower ones of green. It has been said that the impression of the whole will be Oriental, "a brightened Constantinople, with Latin architectural strength."

As for the color in the decorations, there is so much to be said that it is impossible to begin. Like everything beautiful at the fair, each decoration will count in the allotted place as part of a most glorious whole. A range of five colors was granted each man, and they have all played in the key given by the director. The result is perfect harmony. Some of the beauty of the details may be judged by the examples shown here.

America's Progress Told in Picture at the Panama Fair

Republished by Special Arrangement with HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine

The story of the Conquest of the Pacific Coast is told by Frank Vincent Du Mond in two large mural paintings which will be placed under the "Arch of the Setting Sun," the approach from the west to the "Court of the Universe." In this painting the venturous youth is seen bidding farewell to his people and his home in the snowbound East and turning to follow the lure of adventure.

In this painting, the arrival of the fortune-seekers on the golden shores of the western ocean is pictured. They are welcomed with outstretched hands by the inhabitants of that plenteous clime. Portrait models were used for some of the figures, namely Bret Harte, representing Literature, and Junipero Sera, Religion.

Running After a Man

Why It Is Foolish and Defeats Its Own Purpose

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"I HAVE worked in a certain place of business with a young man for the past two years. About a month ago he was changed to another office and on several occasions I have gone up to see him at his new place of business. Each time I have called to see him he has taken me to a show, dance, etc., and has treated me to refreshments and with every respect, but on bidding good night uses the expressions, 'Hope to see you again' or 'Come up again.' He has never asked to call on Sundays. I have asked him to call several times, but he has failed to do so. I have never invited him to call on Sundays, because I was afraid he may be only taking me around so as to have a little enjoyment himself.

"Do you think I should ask him to call some Sunday evening or do you think it would look like running after him? I should not like to make this impression," writes C. H.

My dear girl, what more can you do? You have gone to the young man's place of employment to see him again and again. You have "several times" asked him to call, and now you balk at suggesting that he call on Sundays lest you seem to be "running after him."

My dear girl this is a case of "Seems, madam? Nay 'TIS, not seems."

You are running after this young man shamelessly and in a way pride and womanly dignity ought to forbid. The young man is courteous enough to take you to places of amusement when you come for him. But he never suggests an appointment. He simply shows a certain chivalry in entertaining his uninvited guest. It would be as easy for him to call for you at your places of employment as for you to reverse the custom usually prevalent among men and women. He knows your home is open to him, and yet he does not respond to your rather brazen advances. Stop them at once.

Girls, as long as human nature is true to itself men will prefer to do their own wooing. And as long as women want chivalrous love and protection from the sex that is physically better equipped to fight for a place in the world they will like being given masculine attention and shown masculine intention.

Brazenly running after a man generally causes him to run the other way. Let him show his own aggressive weapons to attract Him.

Stay in your places and he will come a-wooing. Run after him, and though you get considerate treatment and often pleasant courtesy you will miss the essential thing true woman wants —eager, anxious, seeking, demanding —love.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

For over thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

THE FORTUNES OF FANNY

She Gets Some Advice from a Friend Which Tends to Dishearten Her

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XLV.

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

IN spite of Fanny's having "learned her lesson," she felt ill at ease when the next Thursday came and Mrs. Abbott reminded her that it was her day out.

"I do not want to interfere with your taking the recreation which you seem to feel you need," she said sternly. "And I wish to avoid a repetition of last week's discussion."

Fanny knew this speech was intended to convey a subtle reproof, yet at heart she had the consciousness that she herself was right. Why she wondered, was she always at odds with the mistress in whose house she worked? And when having washed her luncheon dishes and set the dinner table, she started out for the afternoon, the same thought was in her mind. So absorbed was she in it that she scarcely noticed that one of the maids employed in the house was on the elevator with her until the girl bade her good afternoon.

"I've seen you once or twice before," the maid said, "so I thought I might as well pass the time of day with you."

"Thank you," Fanny replied. Then as the pair reached the street, she added, "My name's Fanny Hedden."

"I'm Ellen Gallner," said the girl. "We may as well walk as far as the car together, if that's the way you're going."

Ellen had a fine face, and, before Fanny knew it, she was telling her of some of her perplexities. "Don't you find it hard," she asked, to do your duty and yet not be imposed upon?"

"No, Ellen replied. Indeed, I don't. I've been in one place for four years. I'm always treated right. As I'm a New Englander I'd sure to notice if people weren't fair with me. Americans know what's what."

"You must have a wonderful employer," Fanny remarked. "I always feel that I'm being imposed, and that I'm doing work for which I'm not fitted."

Her companion looked at her keenly. "I guess you're not used to living out—are you?" she questioned.

Fanny shook her head. "No," she replied, flushing. "I am not."

"That's what's the matter, then," said the other. "You don't understand the rules."

SHE GETS SOME ADVICE FROM A FRIEND

"The rules?"

"Yes—the rules. You feel all the time that you're too good for your work, I guess, and you wouldn't be in it if you could get something else. Isn't that the truth?"

"Yes," Fanny acknowledged. "I do feel that."

"Then you'd best change your job or change your ideas," Ellen advised. "Now see here—I'm older than you, and I've seen a lot. I tried factory work for a month once. I was next to a girl I wouldn't be seen associating with anywhere else; the boss was after us one once, one of the men peared me by following me home nights. Of course, I had all my evenings off—but I was too tired to do anything but go to bed. I was unhappy all the time. I had been used to living out and being looked after. So I came back to a safe and comfortable job."

"Safe?" Fanny repeated. "And comfortable?"

"Sure," the girl averred. "I've learned that if a maid does her duty and is in a nice family, it's about the most comfortable job going. Her day comes in regular, she has the best kind of food, her room and her bed don't cost her anything, and she is with refined, decent people. Besides, her only expenses are her clothes. What job is safer or more comfortable?"

"I hate it!" Fanny exclaimed.

"Then get out of it," her companion counselled. "If you are too good for it, the jobs too good for you. I don't mean to be cross with you, but you girls who are ashamed of living out make me tired. It's a business matter, after all. If you do your part, and respect yourself, your lady will appreciate you and be nice to you—unless she's meaner than most. But, of course, there's mean ones in all classes. But the trouble with you is that you don't respect your work. That's why you hate it."

The words recurred to Fanny several hours later, as, with a fast-beating heart, she went into a telephone booth and called up Madame Ridetti's establishment and asked for "Miss Henson." A moment later Nellie spoke.

"Oh, Nellie," Fanny called, "this is Fanny."

"Why Fan?" Nellie exclaimed eagerly. "I've been so anxious about you! Why haven't you let me hear from you and what you've been doing?"

"Because," Fanny tried to steady her voice, "I thought that when you knew what I am doing you might not want to see me."

"What do you mean?" Nellie demanded quickly. "What are you doing?"

"I am living out in service, Nell."

"Oh-h-h!" The monosyllable denoted dismay, yet some relief also. Fanny knew that for a moment Nellie had felt a great fear about her friend's career.

"I suppose you are shocked," Fanny interposed hastily. "That is why I tried to keep the truth from you by not seeing you at all. But I've been very lonely. You see, Nell, it was housework or starve—or worse."

"I see," said Nellie. "Poor kid! I'm sorry you've come to this—but, bad as it is, it's honest. And you must come to see me, anyway. What's the matter with your comin' tonight?"

SHE REFUSES TO GO TO SEE NELLIE AT ONCE

"Thank you," Fanny rejoined, "but I don't think I can." She felt that she could not see Nellie just yet, so soon after the revelation she had just made.

"Well, then, when?" Nellie urged. "I have Sunday afternoon and evening off," Fanny told her.

"Good! Come to supper with us girls at our flat then," Nellie suggested. "Only, Fan, suppose you don't tell the girls what you're doin' —I mean what your job is."

"All right," Fanny agreed faintly. "Goodbye!"

She hung up the receiver and went out of the telephone booth.

"Yet they say there's nothing to be ashamed of in living out," she muttered. "If there isn't, why do other working girls take that tone about it?"

(To be continued.)

Blood Money

Ernest," said the benevolent old cleric as he sadly gazed on the forlorn colored prisoner, "you here again?"

"Yes, sah."

"Why, Ernest, Ernest?"

"Stealin' twelve chick'ns and five ducks, sah," appealingly answered the dusky one, as he sadly rolled up his great black eyes. "But I ain't stealed 'em," he went on, growing indignant, "and I wants a lawyer-man to tell the judge so, sah."

"Ah, lawyers cost money," said the chaplain. "Have you any, Ernest?"

"No, sah."

"Anything you can sell to raise money?"

"Only twelve chick'ns and five ducks, sah!"

Mlle. Genevieve Vix, of the Opera-Comique, Paris, says: "My opinion of Savon Cadum is that it's THE soap."

Bad complexions are more often due to parasites and bacteria than to bad blood. Every puff of wind carries thousands of these germs to your face, where they lodge in the invisible skin pores. Here they produce their evil effects by making the complexion coarse and colorless. Your protection lies in using Savon Cadum, the great French Complexion soap, which cleanses the skin cells and pores so thoroughly that the bacteria are completely eliminated. Sold by the leading dept. and drug stores, 50c. a cake.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW TO BECOME ACQUAINTED

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Would you kindly advise me how to become acquainted with a few girls? I go to business and at night when I should be enjoying the air I remain at home simply because I haven't any friends with whom I can go out. I am too young to bother with boys, and do not care to belong to any clubs. F. S.

WHY not try to make friends with the girls who work in your business office? Do you belong to a church? If you do, you ought to have no trouble in meeting other girls who attend the same place of worship.

ASK HIM TO CALL

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-five, and employed as a stenographer in a mercantile house. The man under whom I am directly employed is a widower, possibly thirty-eight or thirty-nine. He has always treated me with the utmost courtesy, kindness and dignity. He has frequently presented me with flowers and other small tokens, which attention other young ladies in the office did not receive, so that at times I believe he thinks considerable of me.

If opportunity offered, should I apologize for a slighting remark I made about him? At present I know he is not accepting social engagements. Would it be proper for me to invite him to call on me? L. S. M.

APOLOGIZE for your frivolity by all means. Then suggest in a quiet, dignified way that since the man has been so kind to you in the office, you thought you would like to suggest his coming to see you in your own home. He may not care to do so, but at least it is perfectly proper under the circumstances to ask him. However your friendship develops, you can feel that he has treated you with the chivalry a real gentleman has for all women.

At the First Attempt

"That's the one I like," insisted little Miss Flitter, as she approvingly a striking khaki blouse.

"Very becoming, madam," agreed the assistant. "Won't you try it on again?"

Validly Mrs. N. endeavored to convince herself that the blouse was not too big for her. She braced her shoulders back, held the roomy garment, but unsuccessfully.

"Just a minute, madam," suggested the assistant, as she hurried along to the shopwalker with the blouse under her arm.

"What shall I tell her," she inquired, nodding in the direction of Miss Flitter, "unless I shrink?"

"Is it too large or too small?"

"Oh, well, guarantees it to shrink at the first washing!"

JEROME MAY GET THAW BY PROXY

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 19—With the curtain scheduled to rise tomorrow on Act I. in the new Thaw drama, the report was spread today that Williams Travers Jerome would not appear in Manchester, but had decided to make a dramatic entrance in Act II., the scenes of which will be laid in New York State.

Deputy Attorney-General Kennedy of New York, Captain Langdon of Albany and Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess County, in which Matteawan is located, will be discovered upon the stage when the curtain rises.

The first scene will be laid at the mansion which Thaw has been occupying during his stay in Manchester. Thaw and H. J. Rice, his secretary, will be discovered waiting for the summons. Former Secretary of State Knox of counsel for Thaw may also be present, although his name is not definitely in the cast as yet. Then the New York officials will produce "the papers."

The next scene will be at Concord, in the office of the Governor. There Thaw will be transferred from Federal to State control, and Governor Spalding will sign the documents turning Thaw over to the representatives of New York State.

The scenario for "The Return from New Hampshire" is not known to the public, and there is much speculation as to the route over which Thaw will be taken into New York. When that journey has been made, "the great court scene" will follow.

It is reported the Jerome camp has been assured by Thaw and his counsel he will accompany the New York officials without friction. Some think the willingness of Thaw to return without attempting to use legal means to delay or evade the order of the United States Supreme Court makes strategy unnecessary. It is regarded by those that he will be taken by train the whole way.

Another impression is that Thaw will be carried by automobile through New Hampshire and a corner of Vermont to the New York State line. Some think a train will be boarded at St. Johnsbury, Vt., for the metropolis.

There are those in the Jerome camp who wish to guard against an emergency. They are suspicious that some legal tactic may be resorted to at the last minute, which might endanger prompt extradition. They don't relish Thaw's calm and confidence.

It is said that while waiting for a train, once Thaw had been surrendered by the New Hampshire authorities to the New York officials, a habeas corpus proceeding might block matters, for this reason the automobile flight by night across the upper edges of New Hampshire and Vermont to the most convenient gateway in the Empire State has been suggested.

TELLS OF WOMAN, 74, PROPOSING

How she proposed and called him "Archie darling" and he called her "Sophie dear," and gave her a gallon of whiskey and they kissed each other on the cheek, was testified to by Dr. Noble H. Hill, fifty-five, in the suits of Miss Sophronia A. Baker, seventy-four, to have a trust of $35,000 she had made in favor of the doctor set aside.

"She wanted me to get rid of Mrs. McAvoy, a nurse and housekeeper, and said, 'Noble, if you marry me, she will have to go.' I said, 'This is so sudden. You will have to give me more time to think it over,'" Dr. Hill said.

"The next morning I went to her room and knocked on her door. She was waiting for me.

"'Noble, dear,' she said, 'I have changed my mind about what we talked last night. Please don't say about it again.' And I never did."

Preceding Dr. Hill on the stand was Mrs. Mary McAvoy the nurse referred to.

During Mrs. McAvoy's cross-examination an attorney intimated he had a dictagraph in his office when she called and that the entire conversation had been recorded. The conversation may be produced today.

When Dr. Hill was called to the stand he testified:

"I made Miss Baker presents of candy and oranges and once I gave her a whole gallon of whiskey. She seemed to want it and I had to give it to her. She thought it very kind of me."

After he gave her the whiskey, they began kissing each other and talking earnestly of marrying, he said.

New Aid for Frank Appeal Promised

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—Counsel for Leo M. Frank, under sentence of death for the murder of Mary Phagan, seek to have the United States Supreme Court advance the hearing of Frank's appeal from Federal Judge Newman's decision denying a habeas corpus writ. Attorney-General Grice of Georgia said today he had received assurances of aid from Louis Marshall of New York, one of the attorneys for the defence. Grice indicated the advancement motion probably would be filed within two weeks.

Ends Lost Love Suit Against Dr. Chessin

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Dr. Alexander S. Chessin, formerly a lecturer at Harvard, announces that Miss Ida A. Barney, an attorney, has withdrawn his $100,000 suit for the alleged alienation of Mrs. Barney's affections, which he brought against Professor Chessin. Mr. Barney says he withdrew action because he discovered he was in error.

UNICORN SEVEN IN CLASH WITH ARENA TONIGHT

HOW THE TEAMS LINE UP.

B. A. A.	ARENA
Hingley, lw	.....
Mackinnon, c	Rush
Osgood, c	Cowley
Sparr, rw	Hall
Hunnings, rw	Wright
Gibbons, p	Goode
Chadwick, g	Hall

Referees—Dr. Tingley and Fred Roque.

A hockey game of unusual interest will be played at the Arena tonight when the B. A. A. seven meets the Arena team. This contest is of great interest to the local fans, who have long argued the question as to which is the better team and who have anxiously awaited the opportunity to see the pair against each other.

The B. A. A. rules a slight favorite, but the Arena is not without its backers. Both teams will play their hardest as much depends on the outcome. The result should be one of the hardest-fought games ever contested at the local rink.

ARENA HAS THE EDGE.

Conditions governing the match appear to give the Arena team the edge. Substitution will only be permitted in the first half and no re-substitution will be allowed. The B. A. A., with its fourteen men to draw from, would have it all over the Arena if re-substitution were allowed. The Arena carries only three spare men.

Just who Coach Winsor will start for the B. A. A. is hard to figure, but Manager Fred Hoey will start his full strength against whatever the Unicorn presents.

The game will be of twenty-five minute halves. This extended time gives the B. A. A. the edge, because of their superior condition. The Unicorn men have been together six weeks, while the Arena players have had only half a dozen practice sessions.

PLAY UNDER AMATEUR RULES.

Two of the best officials available will handle the game in Dr. George W. Tingley and Fred Roque, the latter coach of the Dartmouth varsity hockey team.

The Arena players have agreed to play under the Amateur Hockey League rules, which makes conditions more favorable for the B. A. A. No board checking will be allowed, but checking in middle ice will be permitted.

FAMOUS FOR HER HAIR

Actress Tells How to Obtain It.

Madame Rose, the well-known actress, who played on one of the leading vaudeville circuits the past winter and who is especially noted for her long, beautiful hair, in a recent interview in Chicago made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can promote the growth of their hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe which they can mix at home. To a half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barlo Compound and ½ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the scalp two or three times a week with the finger tips. This is not only the finest hair grower I have ever known, but it prevents the hair from falling out, removes dandruff and scalp humors, darkens streaked, faded gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. The ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost."—Advertisement.

B. A. A. RELAY MEN CLASH SATURDAY

One of the most interesting features of the big Coast Artillery Corps track meet, which will be held in the Irvington Street Armory, Saturday night, should be the relay race between two teams representing the B. A. A. The rival aggregation have been carefully selected by Coach Jack Ryder and it is an open question as to which combination is the fastest.

Ryder has divided his star men so that a thrilling race is assured. The first team will be composed of Caldwell, Bishop, Ryan and Mahoney, while the second team will have Halpin, Hoeffler, Donnelly and Rose. Ryan and Donnelly are new men, but both have shown excellent form this Winter. Ryan won the 600-yard novice race at the Milrose games in New York last week and great things are expected from him.

Donnelly first gained fame while running for the High School of Commerce. He then went to Exeter, where he continued his good work, winning the 880-yard run at the B. A. A. schoolboy games two years ago.

Harvard will also be represented by a speedy team of relay runners. Among the star men running for the Crimson relay team are Wilcox, Minot, Turner, Pennypacker, Capper and Bingham.

The hard-and special race for the Pfaff trophy has attracted considerable interest. Tom Phelps naturally rules a top-heavy favorite, but the speedy B. A. A. captain will not be able to do any loafing with Dave Caldwell and Joe Higgins of Holy Cross opposing him.

Clabby Favorite in Bout With Gibbons

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The biggest event of the week in Middle West pugilistic circles will take place tomorrow night in Milwaukee, when Jimmy Clabby of Hammond, Ind., and Mike Gibbons of St. Paul clash in a ten-round bout before Tom Flowers' club. The outcome will have much to do with the middleweight championship question, the honor being claimed by both Clabby and Gibbons.

Both Clabby and Gibbons are training here. Clabby is being made a favorite here, although there is plenty of Gibbons money in sight. They will probably enter the ring at even money. This will be their fourth meeting, each claiming one victory and a draw.

Northampton May Get Eastern Club

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 19.—The Cleveland club of the American League, which owns the Waterbury franchise, has given notice of its withdrawal from the territory, and the club now becomes the property of the Eastern Association. Plans are under way to interest Waterbury business men in putting a team in the field.

Manager Semasi of New Britain said he was hopeful of placing his team at Northampton, Mass.

Expect Thousands in Big Bowling Tournament

Great Interest in First Roll-off for Prizes

MAY INCREASE LIST OF AWARDS

The second week of the great Boston AMERICAN bowling contest is on full blast. Entire Greater Boston—or the bowling part of it, which is a matter of fact, the greater part—is rushing post haste to get in on the prizes.

Practically every bowler in and around Boston has been enrolled. Already the first week, in itself the new bowling sort of a success, has been eclipsed. So fast are the entries pouring in that the contest editor has been obliged to hire an extra corps of assistants to take care of the mail.

Before Thursday midnight, when the second week's competition comes to an end, if the present conditions may be used as a criterion, there will be several thousand bowlers on the lists.

All the stars who qualified last week are at it again. They all figure that they have a good chance to win out in the big roll-off Saturday for the first week's prizes, but they are taking no chances.

GREAT INTEREST IN ROLL-OFF.

That roll-off is stirring up all kinds of interest. It will probably be witnessed by the greatest crowd that ever watched an alley contest in this city. The proprietor of Littlefield's alleys, where the prizes will be decided and the Contest Editor of the AMERICAN have been swamped with applications for seats at the ringside, as you may say.

The prizes will be awarded immediately after the roll-off is concluded.

There will be another roll-off the Saturday following, one each week, in fact. The high men in the weekly list will always have to fight it out among themselves in actual competition. There will also be prizes each week. Every bowler in Boston knows that now, but it's worth repeating.

MORE PRIZES POSSIBLE.

What's further, if interest in the contest keeps bowling along as it is just now, the prizes are likely to be made larger. More prizes are likely to be handed out, too. With so many contestants a larger prize list will soon be a necessity.

Also the number of qualifiers is likely to be increased, soon the Contest Editor may be actually forced to announce that twenty or even thirty high men will have a chance in the roll-off.

The following prizes will be awarded each week:

First Prize	$20.00
Second Prize	10.00
Third Prize	5.00
Special Women's Prize	5.00

The prizes will consist of merchandise. You can have anything you want at any store you choose to the value of the prize, and the Boston AMERICAN will pay the bill. The merchandise prizes are given to protect you against becoming professionals.

BOWDOIN SQUARE AFTER BIG LEAD

BOWDOIN SQUARE is down to increase its lead in the Greater Boston League tonight. The West End bowlers have the Brunswick Loop quintet as their opponents and should have but little difficulty in taking the majority, if not all four points.

Cambridge Loop is comfortably located in second position, but will have to keep up its good work to stay ahead of Rowe's Wharf. The Atlantic Avenue rollers meet Eggleston Square on their own lanes. This should be the feature match of the evening.

Murray is tied with Rowe's Wharf for third place, and with the Regal team as its opponents tonight the South End aggregation has a good chance to jump ahead.

* * *

MANAGER BILL BEATTY of the Chancery team will take his champions to Milford on Monday evening, February 1, to bowl an all-star team of that city.

* * *

"BO" HARTFORD and Jim Mahoney of the Arch Street alleys have issued a challenge to Carey and McLean of the Casino City League team for a twenty-string match, the strings to be rolled at the Arch Street and the remaining strings at Casino. This match will probably be arranged today.

* * *

THE Furniture League rollers will peg away at the pins tonight at the Arch Street alleys and the battle between Pioni and J. Morgan for high individual honors will be renewed. But five pins separate the men in the total pinfall for the season.

* * *

THE Walworth Manufacturing League has challenged the Blake & Knowles organization to a match. A team will be picked from each league. Berry, Pillsbury, Ford, Houghton and Waitt will probably bowl for Blake & Knowles.

* * *

FIELD, Waterman and McLean are running neck n neck for the individual honors in the Telephone and 101 respectively.

League, having averages of 103, 102 and 101.

* * *

THE Casino alleys is offering a prize to the value of five dollars for the best four non-consecutive strings rolled during the week. Bob Mahlikes is leading the rollers with strings of 121, 116, 117, 107, total 463.

* * *

A SPECIAL match will be rolled tonight at the Chancery alleys between two teams of the freight department of the B. & A.

* * *

THE Old Timers will gather at the Arch Street alleys on Thursday evening, and Frank Mack is making preparations for their benefit. A collation will be served and the biggest turnout of old timers this season is anticipated.

* * *

YALE and Princeton will meet at bowling either in New Haven or New York about March 15. The Elis have already selected a tentative quintet, and the trials for the Tiger five end tomorrow. Both colleges have taken up the rolling game this year for the first time.

BAT NELSON CHALLENGES FREDDY WELSH TO FINISH FIGHT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

GIL GALLANT KNOCKED OUT BY ROBIDEAU

Boston boxing "fans" expressed surprise today on learning that Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea lightweight, had been knocked out last night by Sam Robideau, of Philadelphia, in the fourth round of a scheduled fifteen-round bout at Bridgeport, Ct.

The referee stopped the bout when it was seen that Gallant was in no shape to continue.

Gallant has been making rapid strides in the ring and has won the reputation of being one of the best lightweights in the country. He first gained national recognition when he went to California, where he whipped the best men of his weight. His popularity climbed still higher when he won two decisions over Leach Cross, the Brooklyn veteran.

Gallant started out like a champion and boxed well until the middle of the fourth, when Robideau landed a well-directed right swing on the lower jaw.

Gallant went to the floor, but was on his feet quickly. Again Robideau connected, with the result that Gallant was next seen lying on the ropes for almost the entire count.

Gallant tried hard to hold out to the end of the round by covering up, but did not appear to want to clinch. At the third knockdown Gallant appeared to want to take all the time allowed.

Rivers Knocked Out.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 19.—Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn knocked out Joe Rivers, the Mexican, in the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout here. The end came near the end of the round, and a right to the jaw was the finishing blow.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

At the meeting of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association held yesterday afternoon affairs relating to the forthcoming motor show in March were gone into at considerable length. Secretary Chester L. Campbell gave a preliminary report which indicated that the show will be fully the equal if not the superior, in the number of exhibits at least to those shows which have gone before.

Owing to the display of commercial vehicles at this exhibit, the space is in greater demand than ever and great difficulty will be experienced in giving all that wish to exhibit the space they desire.

* * *

A. L. Pickard, of the self-starting department of the General Electric Company, spent yesterday in Boston. Mr. Pickard left here for a trip through the West and will return to Boston following the close of the Chicago exhibit which opens next week.

* * *

The exports of American motor trucks to Europe during the month of November, 1913, jumped to 1,043, against 64 vehicles exported during the same month of 1912. The value of commercial vehicles exported to Europe in that month was $2,244,-587, or nearly four times as great as that of the 776 pleasure cars exported to all parts of the world during the same period. Parts to the extent of $352,567 were also sent abroad. Examination of the statistics in detail shows clearly the dominating position of France and Great Britain as purchasers of American trucks. France alone took 695 vehicles and the United Kingdom took 404.

E. C. Davis of Dennison, Texas, recently arrived in this city coming overland in his 1915 Cole little six. He started for Boston with the car before it had been driven fifty miles and in his run of 2,530 miles between the two points had no trouble whatever. His gasoline consumption showed an average of over fourteen miles per gallon for the entire trip and he came through without a single puncture.

AMATEURS MEET IN INTER-CITY BOUTS TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

TEN supple limbed, rugged boxers from the honorable cities of New York and Brooklyn are wearing out perfectly good shoe leather walking on the hard pavements of our fair city today. The invaders are an impressive looking band of young men. They asserted in unison that they were very much pleased with the frog pond on the Common, while one of the visitors remarked that it would be quite a sensation to fall off the top of Bunker Hill Monument. He is probably correct.

We experienced great joy when the marching legion did not poke any fun at our noble streets. This proved that they were brought up properly, and if they fail to show any skill as boxers we shall be kind enough to assert that each and every one of them is a perfect gentleman. This recommendation in itself, however, may not aid them in paying the esteemed landlord, the grocery man and their crew of fellow bill collectors.

Be it as it may the above-mentioned delegation is scheduled to perform in a series of inter-city boxing bouts which will be held in Mechanics Building tonight under the auspices of the B. A. A. They will clash with the leading glove men in this section of the country and some spirited battles are expected. Ten boxers will do their best to uphold the fair name of the Hub and they should be able to make things mighty interesting for the visitors.

* * *

IT is true that a number of the boxers who will do the honors for Boston do not reside within the city limits, but they live near enough to City Hall to be able to recognize the individual members of the cabinet of one James Curley.

Here is a complete list of the inter-city battles:

115 pounds—Harry McLaichey and G. P. Friel, Boston, vs. J. Hogan, New York and L. Murtha, Brooklyn.

125 pounds—Jerry Carlson and John J. Sullivan, Boston vs. M. Mc-Lean, Brooklyn, and A. Mack, New York.

135 pounds—M. Crowley and Billy Cole, Boston, vs. John Jarecki, New York, and S. Donadio, Brooklyn.

145 pounds—Pat McCarthy and James Gernon, Boston, vs. J. Romero, Brooklyn, and W. McDonnell, New York.

Heavyweight—James McDonald and P. L. Kelly, Boston, vs. Arthur Sheridan, Brooklyn, and H. Guild, New York.

THERE will be three contests in each class. Each of the Boston boxers will meet one of the visitors in trial tussles. The winners will then exchange punches.

There will also be a series of bouts in open classes. Encounters will be fought at 108, 145 and 158 pounds. A large number of entries have been received and some merry engagements are expected.

PATSY DeLUCCA of the North End and Roy Wood, the Fall River boxer, will do their level best to startle the well-known universe when they meet in a twelve-round bout before the Granite City A. A. in Manchester, N. H., tonight. Both boys are well-known in Manchester and a good sized crowd is expected to turn out to witness the festivities. Charley Sheppard of this city and Larry Burns, who hails from Lawrence, will meet in the semi-final skirmish of eight sessions.

THE management of the Onix A. C. of North Abington writes that it has made a change in its program for next Friday night. Johnny Murphy of South Boston and Johnny Noonan, the hard-hitting Dorchester boxer, will meet in the feature bout of ten rounds. It was originally planned to have Howard McGee and Jimmy Reardon exchange blows. Joe Rivers of Gloucester and Jack Farrell of Favor, the Brockton ring veteran, will do the honors in the semi-final bout.

SOME hard, fast ring bouts are looked for at the amateur tournament of the Quincy A. A. which will be conducted next Monday night. Bouts will be held at 110, 120, 135 and 145 pounds. Entries close Friday night with J. W. McDonald, No. 68 Farrington street, Quincy.

"The Rabbit's" Column By Walter J. Maranville HORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

A reader of this column writes that he is sick and tired of reading in the newspapers about baseball lawsuits and contract jumpers and the war between Organized Baseball and the Federal League and he wants more stuff about the ball players.

* * *

I think he is right. But I can't help the lawsuits and the contract jumping and the baseball war. It's none of my affair. I have signed my contract for next season and am waiting the call on my manager to report for practice.

* * *

But there is not a great deal to be said about the ball player at this season of the year. We have our turn from about March 15 to October 15 every year. In the other months we do the best we can. When the championship season begins I intend to stop writing and devote all my time to the game. That's what Stallings insists upon and it suits me.

* * *

The speculation this Winter is largely on what the new managers in the big league clubs will accomplish with their teams next season. Several of the clubs have new managers. Will Dahlen Navin will try his hand in leading the Yanks. Clarence Rowland, who has never been in the big leagues, will have charge of the Chicago White Sox and Hugh Moran, the veteran catcher, will pilot the Phillies.

* * *

Stallings says a man has to learn how to manage a ball club just as he has to learn to play ball. He says it takes two or three years for a manager to learn the ropes, no matter how much experience he has had as a player. That being the case I expect Messrs Donovan, Rowland and Moran will have their work cut out for them.

* * *

"Speaking of trading base ball players for ball dogs, canaries and ball bats," declared Enoch Somers, veteran manager, "why those were nothing compared to the deals we used to make in the old days. When I was manager of the Cortlesburg, N.Y., team in the Ohio-Virginia league, we ran out of tobacco on the train one day while making a jump over the Kentucky State line, and I traded an outfielder to the manager of the Huntington, W. Va., team for a package of tobacco.

* * *

"On another occasion, while manager of the Newark team of the Ohio State league, we visited Zanesville for a series and found the locale without enough infielders to go around and make up the team. In order to help things along I traded a third baseman to Zanesville for a bat bag that was lying near the players' bench, and which had caught my fancy. Both of these deals were bonafide."

* * *

Roger Peckinpaugh owned a lowly batting average of .223 last season, but he batted in 59 runs and led the Yankees in bringing home the markers. In Branch Rickey's method of scoring Peckinpaugh would be considered the most valuable hitter, even though he did rank below several other members of his team. It's the man who drives in the runs that wins ball games.

* * *

A correspondent who doesn't want his name used writes:

"Dear Maranville: I noticed [illegible] Paul Hines' triple play unassisted. I was there and as I remember it there was a player on first and one on second, when the batter hit on a low line toward centre field. Paul was playing deep, but came in swift as a deer the could run, believe me. Just back of second he made the ball at his shoe tops, and crossed second base with the ball in his hands, thus putting out the batter and as both runners had passed second he had them standing up, no assist of any description being made.

"Plays are sometimes so quickly made that the onlooker cannot grasp all the details. Even at the time and at this late day I may have forgotten the actual facts, but above is my memory of it, and I have told it hundreds of times, before either Ball or O'Hagen were ever heard of."

* * *

"There seems to be some doubt," writes O. P. Black of Newton, "as to whether Paul Hines made that much-talked of triple play all by himself in 1878. I have the printed score of the game and all the other league games of that year, and you or anyone interested can see the game as printed by letting me know. This game was played on the 5th of May and the story is thusly told: 'In the eighth inning O'Rourke made the first run for the visitors off errors, leaving Manning and Sutton on bases. Burdock's fly back of short was captured by Hines after a sharp run, he putting out Manning at third and throwing to second in time to put out Sutton. It looks to me as if Sweasy, the second baseman, got the third out. Nichols pitched for Providence and Tommy Bond for Boston. Providence won 3 to 2."

No, they did not.

Kahanamoku Breaks Swimming Record

Word reached here today from Sydney, N. S. W., of a wonderful swimming feat by the Duke Kahanamoku, the Honolulu wonder, who is the present Olympic champion for the 100 meters. The Duke swam 100 yards in the marvellous time of 55.3-5 seconds, and these figures dwarf anything heretofore accomplished, whether on a straightaway course or with a turn.

Medford Defeat Sets Back Arlington High

The Arlington High School hockey team was given a setback in the Interscholastic League when it lost to the Medford High seven, 4 to 1. Laird and Prendergast played slashing hockey for the winners, while Barry and McCarthy were the stars of the losing side.

WATT & BOND 10-CENT CIGAR IN EVERY CASE BLACKSTONE

DOG TRADE DENIED BY BRESNAHAN

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Seven additional affidavits have been filed by Organized Baseball in the office of the United States District Court. They will be submitted to Judge Landis tomorrow when the preliminary hearing of the Federal League suit against Organized Baseball is heard.

The affidavits in the main defined the allegations of the outlaws that Organized Baseball was a trust. Some of them tended to show that baseball as an organization helped the players to a great extent instead of keeping them in slavery.

The case of Pitcher Perritt, formerly of the Cardinals, is cited. It is pointed out that an experienced player was appointed to show him the finer points of the game and to allow him in every way to become successful. It further said that Perritt had at times said he was dissatisfied with conditions. Perritt jumped to the Pittsburgh Federals.

One of the affidavits is made out by Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Chicago Cubs. Roger denies that he traded Pitcher "Doc" Hopper for a bird dog, as the Federal League says. He says that he released Hopper to Dick Kinsella, then owner of the Springfield team. He took that a brother of the pitcher had a fine bird dog he wanted, but did not care to buy.

As Kinsella wanted to repay Bresnahan in some manner for the favor he did by giving him Hopper, Roger says, Dick purchased the dog from Hopper's brother and made him (Bresnahan) a present of it.

Bresnahan also told of the efforts of the Federal League to sign him as manager of Brooklyn.

Win Snow May Coach Maine Football Team

ORONO, Me., Jan. 19.—The University of Maine is still undecided as to a football coach for next Fall. Two meetings of the athletic board have already been held, and so far nothing definite has been done. As it stands now the choice lies between "Pat" Dwyer, the old U. of P. centre, and Win Snow of Dartmouth fame. One of these two men will shortly be chosen for this position.

"Bat" Nelson Seeks Fight to a Finish with Freddie Welsh

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Battling Nelson really believes he has a chance to win back the lightweight title. He wants to meet Freddie Welsh in a finish fight, and this tribune, who is to open a club in Havana, Cuba, may stage the mill.

"I want to lose a crack at the present champion of the lightweights, Freddie Welsh," says Nelson, "and I want the battle to go to a finish. Cuba has immune as to long-distance fights, and I would like to start there all properly down there with the clever Welshman champion. I am good and fast enough myself, even yet, to hold a title. I will post $2,000 to bind such a match and will let the money stand as a side bet."

Barrow Not After Job With Yanks

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Will you please deny for me the stories printed on that I was a candidate for the position of secretary or business manager of the Yankees," said Ed Barrow, president of the Internationals, to-day. "These stories were coined by the papers in order to stir up trouble. They are false and unfavorable comment on the part of several meeting with Mr. Ruppert and Mr. Huston for the sale of the Yankees I was approached on nothing but baseball in the position of club president and I wanted to find out what was in the air. I have never said I would accept the position of president and I have never given up all thought of accepting a position in baseball for the second time of my International league baseball days."

Pirates May Secure Outfielder Connolly

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 19.—A deal has been practically effected whereby Pittsburg hopes to get Joe Connolly, the outfielder from the Braves. The Boston club is willing to let Connolly go to the Pirates, but the terms of the deal are holding the matter up. Barney Dreyfuss wants to buy Connolly outright, but Boston wants one of the infielders, and Shafer is said to be the man.

NO BOXING BOUTS FOR SING SING

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The boxing exhibition which "Battling" Nelson had arranged to give tomorrow afternoon before prisoners at Sing Sing, has been turned down by the Golden Rule Brotherhood. Nelson had promised some of the biggest "headliners" on the prize fighting world.

A statement issued by Deputy Warden Lewis, in the absence of Warden Osborne, explained how Nelson's proposition came out to Waterview.

While he made no objection to boxing as a sport when properly conducted, Warden Osborne recalled that he opposed a bout in the prison yard when the fighters entered the institution. Nothing to that effect, however, was said to Nelson's representatives when the pugilists, without meeting to inform them to their decision.

Mr. Osborne's faith in the Brotherhood proved well founded, as he received a voluntary communication from the officers of the executive committee, thanking him for not sanctioning boxing as the proceeds were to benefit the young government, and not the Brotherhood. The matter is now considered closed as final.

JEWETT PLAYERS IN 'MERRY WIVES'

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" is a long step from "Romeo and Juliet," yet the Jewett Players at the Boston Opera House accomplished the distance last evening with a facility that emulated that of Shakespeare himself.

If the "Merry Wives" is not farce comedy, it treads closely on the heels of it and bubbles over with the same kind of humor found in "Twelfth Night" and "The Midsummer Night's Dream."

The performances, while lacking the finish notable in the two preceding productions, "As You Like It" and "Romeo and Juliet," proved satisfactory and material for bursts of laughter from an audience that had come obviously to be amused.

The amorous knight, Sir John Falstaff, with a makeup that defied criticism in every detail, was played by Henry Crocker, who conceived the part, as a sober, conceited egotist, who took himself seriously to the end.

Standing out clear cut and deliciously distinct was the character of Master Slender, performed with great success by Leonard Mudie. This lovesick, effeminate knight never failed to put the house in good humor. As a piece of acting it was excellent and much appreciated.

The various women played with vivacity and spirit that did much to carry scenes which when compared with our modern ideas of comedy are a bit old fashioned.

Georga Relph and Viva Birkett, who were seen last week as Romeo and Juliet, made handsome lovers.

With the splendid settings which have served in the past to lend the air of grand opera, the play as a whole makes a rare treat for Boston theatregoers who would rather hear Shakespeare well done at moderate prices.

STAR BILL GIVEN AT B. F. KEITH'S

The cup of enjoyment at Keith's bubbles over this week, and in addition to several star entertainment features that are new to Boston there is presented a program where everyone interested in safe-guarding the children ought to witness for the lesson it conveys. There is the remarkable playlet "Milk," which Miss Una Clayton and company make a diverting while they impress the human appeal of the crusade for pure milk for babes.

"Milk" is a genuine comedy, drawn from its moral, and depicts the movement for a milk station at the home of a girl, the "little mother" of the slums. Other characters include a sweetheart, a doctor and a meddling lawyer. The movement for reform fostered by this organization is the plot, but the subordination of civic leaders, as was witnessed last night at the first public approval of Mayor Curley, and as will be evidenced this afternoon by the presence of Governor Walsh.

In "La Petite Revuette" Van Cleade, supported by Hollins Sunny, the melody man, and a large company, compress several season's successful offerings into a "Ragtime Soldier" to the delight of the spectators. John plays the piano to ragtime to the admiration of all held to tatters.

An excellent eccentric dancing comedy act is that of Morton and Austin. Omar's fourteen Arabs do an amazing series of tumbling and contortion feats which when compared with our modern ideas of comedy are a bit old fashioned.

George Relph and Viva Birkett, who were seen last week as Romeo and Juliet, made handsome lovers.

"Ambushed," the Governor Trask feature, with Francis X. Bushman and a strong cast, received a good hand, as did several comedies and dramas. Gaiety Theatre.

Joe Hurtig's "Girls of the Moulin Rouge," the big travesty company now in its original home at the Gaiety Theatre this week. There seems to be a method in the madness that prompted the old city ready of this season's version of the "Girls of the Moulin Rouge." From every direction comes the verdict of superiority of elaborate details regarding the production, and what must be gratifying to the promoters of such an extravagant venture, are the financial results.

The dominant comedy feature is Harry Woods, who of all comedians in the line of travesty, is the most high-proof sphinx. Woods is a comedian of the happy-go-lucky type, and his methods are most diverting and entertaining. Others in the cast include Mabelle Morgan, Ethel Hutchison, Primrose Semon, Arthur Conrad, Fred Le Roy Granville, The Moulin Rouge Girls, Jimmy Connors, Ethel Marmont and Mabel Lyncet.

Grand Opera House.

The "Girls from Joyland" Company presented a fairly lively burlesque show at the Grand Opera House yesterday, which served to introduce a string of all "dope" impersonators, Frank Wakefield. He proved to be a talented artist. He was supported with twenty-five pretty girls. Dolores and Wilson, in their new role, and Maise l'Estrange, Monica Bennett, Rene Cooper and others of prominence were seen and contributed largely to the success of the offering.

"Too Many Cooks."

The seat sale for the engagement of "Too Many Cooks," Frank Craven's brilliant comedy, opened today at the Plymouth Theatre. The place comes here for the first time on next Monday night after attaining a record run of one solid year at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, New York.

Marie Tempest.

Marie Tempest comes to the Majestic Theatre next week, supported by her London company in Henry Arthur Jones' newest comedy, "Mary Goes First." "The Marriage of Kitty," by Fred De Gresac and Francois De Croisett, adapted by Cosmo Gordon Lennox, and a curtain raiser, "The Dumb and the Blind," by Harold Chapin.

Franklin Park Theatre.

The most critical amusement seeker will find delight and certainly worth the excellent program offered by the management of the beautiful Franklin Park Theatre, corner of Blue Hill avenue and Columbia road, for the first half of this week. The vaudeville end of the bill is headed by one of the cleverest and snappiest comedy acrobatic acts appearing in vaudeville in Correlli and Gillette. It is an entertainer that certainly is well worth seeing. Another good laugh-producer is in the form of a comedy skit entitled "Mr. Dingle, the Dandy," by Beatrice Flint and Ralph Bevan. There are also feature films.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and thickness to hair when faded, streaked or gray.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked, and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair, and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark, and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

TRENTINI SCORES IN 'PEASANT GIRL'

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

See Trentini in "The Peasant Girl"! It's one of the best light operas of the last decade, performed by the finest singing company since the days of "The Bostonians."

Sounds enthusiastic, doesn't it? Well, I would have gone further and said "The Peasant Girl" was better than "The Merry Widow" if the last act maintained the standard of the first two. Later, when they have telescoped all the first two and two acts are as many as a good opera should indulge in—throw out one or two interpolations from "In Pan Alley," which blend with the rest like a lump of fat in the lukewarm oil with champagne, it will qualify still in a statement.

In the meantime don't miss it if you love good music and fine singing.

The Trentini Girl is a delightful operetta composed by Oskar Nedbal and Leo Stein, author of "The Spring Maid." It is known abroad as "Polenblut." It is produced by the Shubert's in collaboration with Comstock & Gest, and to their credit be it said that they selected a company every member of which can sing no matter how small a part each one of the six may have. There is also a splendid male chorus, a beautiful girl chorus and a big ballet, all splendidly drilled by Ernest G. Merola, an Italian operatic conductor.

The story resembles slightly "She Stoops to Conquer." An heiress disguises herself as a serving maid to win the love of the young noble who has been picked to meet her. Trentini plays the stooping lady and Clifton Crawford, who makes most of the fun, is the bumbling idiot of the piece.

It is the first time since Trentini starred light opera that I have heard her in a role in which she has really displayed her voice, and her singing last night would have awakened enthusiasm in the old Manhattan Opera House whence she came. She is more than a soubrette. She is a very clever little comedienne and she provoked lots of laughter by her drolleries, especially when disguised as a boy.

Clifton Crawford is admirably situated for his peculiar comedy talent. He is also exhibited with Frances Pelham in modern dances, and though they are not the Castles, they succeed because Miss Prichard is an unusually charming girl and Crawford is Crawford.

Letty Yorke, an English newcomer, appears to own a pretty dramatic soprano voice and is personally very attractive. Joseph C. Thomas, as the hero, is really a distinguished baritone and a fine personality. Lorna Doone, of the old Castle Square company, Ernest Hare and Ethel Houston all sing well.

Modern Theatre.

For gripping situations and vivid realism patrons of the Modern Theatre will find "A Prodigal Father" remarkable. The play is adapted from Porter Emerson Browne's great play founded upon Rudyard Kipling's famous poem, "The Vampire." It is the latest vehicle of the famous William Fox Feature Film studios and is presented all this week.

Waldron's Casino.

Concerning the entertainment which Sam Howe has provided for the patrons of Waldron's Casino, there is only one conclusion. It is a rattling good vehicle and should enhance the present splendid reputation of "The Love-Makers" Company.

COMING EVENTS AT THE THEATRES

Plays That Remain in Boston Theatres

TREMONT.—"Seven Keys to Baldpate" began its fourth week at the Tremont Theatre last evening, and the large audience was thrilled to the exciting episodes and amused by the laughable incidents which dominate the play. It is a decided novelty and is the conception of the story by Earl Derr Biggers.

MAJESTIC.—The last week of that positively delightful comedy operetta, "Suzi," with Jose Collins in the stellar role, will begin at the Majestic on Monday afternoon. Miss Collins, as Suzi Dacre, the wife of Jimmy Dacre, a London music hall star, has a part that is admirably suited to her talents, and she is the recipient of many ovations. Her singing is delightful and her dancing is a revelation. Others in the cast include Malcolm Scott as Jimmy Dacre, Jr., Herbert, as well as the delightful Miss Collins, and Miss Jimmie "The Debutante" will be revived in detail tomorrow by the Boston Post's dramatic critic, Frederick Johns.

For the last half of the week the great five-reel masterpiece, "The Clutch of Destiny," with Evelyn Forest Shay and a strong supporting company, will be given.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Paul Panzer, of moving picture fame, who gained prominence as the villain in "The Perils of Pauline," is appearing at the Bowdoin Square Theatre and delivering a monologue that proves him one of the most popular of all artists. On Wednesday night a surprise is offered and Mr. Panzer will distribute the autographed photo to the ladies. The moving picture this week is the $200,000 Ambrosio production, "Spartista" or "The Destruction of Carthage."

Exeter Street Theatre.

H. M. Warner in "The Ghost Breaker" is the attraction the first half of this week at the Exeter Street Theatre. This big Paramount feature is one of the most effective pictures yet shown in Boston.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little bargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Bargol—one tablet with every meal—for two or three weeks, then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how fast you put on flesh or what your friends say and think. The scales don't lie and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily put on from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. Bargol does not make the new flesh stays put.

Bargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns those fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment, which is then assimilated into the blood and tissues, thus adding to the nourishment, new tissue from your body as well as enough extra weight to round out your figure and make the fat producing contents of Bargol (which are obtained from certain grains) actually create new blood and pounds of healthy flesh before your very eyes. Bargol is a scientific discovery, efficient and inexpensive. Bargol is sold by druggists everywhere. Get a package today—take tablets to a package—in a glass of water, milk or coffee—and watch the results.

How to Aid the Actors Who Aid All Worthy Charities

The death of Gus Williams, comedian, sick, penniless and no longer wanted on the stage, at the age of seventy-two, may well teach actors a lesson in prudence, but, above all, should TEACH THE PUBLIC A LESSON IN GRATITUDE, and awaken it to a sense of its own responsibility.

There are no people in the world so charitable as the actor folk—to none is so little charity shown.

In his long life on the stage Gus Williams had lightened hours for hundreds of thousands of people. He had turned depression into gaiety, dispelled melancholy, averted morbid thoughts and acts. It was his business, you may say; and so it was. But it is a sorry commentary upon our modern society if the man who for fifty years contributed to its joys shall go to his grave penniless and unhonored, while so many who have clambered upward by bringing sorrow upon others attain the world's greatest rewards of honor and of wealth.

Gus Williams began his stage career in 1863. For nearly half a century he followed, with some distinction in his own line, that calling the rewards of which are always overstated, always precarious, and usually diminishing as old age comes on. We wish that now, as he lies dead, killed by dread of complete penury, it were possible to tell how many times he had stood before the footlights employing to the fullest extent his queer genius in benefit performances for this or that worthy cause. Beyond doubt, the benefits to which Gus Williams lent his aid numbered their thousands; the funds which he helped to raise reach, in their total, hundreds of thousands. But he died alone, melancholy, desperate, dreading poverty more abject than he knew. Serving others well for a lifetime, there were none to serve him at the last.

Gus Williams is beyond benefits now. But it is a crying shame that such a man should have died in want. And he is but a type. It is a cruel and inexcusable injustice that any honored member of a profession which does so much constantly for every good and worthy charitable cause should have no fund from which to seek aid confidently in the moment of his own need.

During the last six months the demands of charity upon the people of the United States have been almost incalculable. In one way or another millions of dollars have been raised to aid sufferers from the foreign war, while widespread business depression at home has caused unusual need for philanthropy here. WHO CAN ESTIMATE THE EXTENT TO WHICH THIS CAMPAIGN FOR CHARITABLE FUNDS HAS BEEN AIDED BY THE SYMPATHY AND GENEROSITY OF THE PEOPLE OF THE STAGE? Scarce a week has passed since last November without one or more benefits in the cities of the country for the Belgians, the French, the British, the Germans, for Red Cross nurses, American ambulance corps, or this or that distinctive charity in the war zone. It is needless to be specific. Nothing is more firmly impressed upon the mind of the everyday citizen than the number and the success of these benefits in which the player folk gave of their very best for the cause of charity.

To do this the participants had necessarily to neglect themselves while giving the money they earned to others. They could not respond so generously to all calls without sacrifice. And the public should no longer accept such sacrifice as a matter of course. It should not seek such generous aid and then be forgetful of the generous givers in their hour of need.

The press and public and those interested in charities have it in their power to make return in kind, though inadequately, for the aid given by actors to all charitable causes. The chief charity maintained by stage people for stage people is the Actors' Fund. It is pitifully inadequate, but it exists and should be greatly increased. It would be but poetic justice for the actors to request that every now and then other professional men should give half a day to earning money for this fund—as actors give their time to other funds. As this is impracticable it is a part of the duty which generous actors owe to themselves as well as to others to see that this Actors' Fund receives its proper share from the charitable efforts and contributions of actors and actresses.

NO BENEFIT SHOULD HEREAFTER BE GIVEN FOR ANY CHARITY IN WHICH AT LEAST 25 PER CENT. OF THE PROCEEDS DOES NOT GO TO THE ACTORS' FUND, in addition to which there should be every year certain benefits, ardently supported by the press and the public, to swell the receipts of the Actors' Fund. These stage people, so generous in their response to the needs of others, should not themselves be left in their last hours to penury and misery.

The Hearst newspapers, which gratefully recall the great assistance of the theatrical world in their charitable endeavors, invite the co-operation of other newspapers and of the public generally in this worthy purpose.

DIGNITY

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

We mortals have a habit, one from which we seldom stray,
Of putting men on pedestals because they've passed away.
The beacon lights of history, the great guys of the past,
Will get their verbal nosegays while this earth of ours shall last.
We speak of William Shakespeare as a wonder beyond doubt;
Yet Shakespeare used to meet the boys and have his evenings out.
And very likely William, after sailing wide and high,
Forgot to send his laundry out, the same as you or I.

We speak of dear old Lincoln as the Greeks spoke of their gods,
And gladly pay full homage to the name our nation lauds.
But Lincoln laughed at dignity. "Good form" he loved to flout,
And sometimes tried a lawsuit with his socks on wrongside out.
We prate about George Washington, whose greatness was complete,
But George, as the English say, would rather fight than eat.
Napoleon wasn't happy till he had his foemen licked,
But fought so much with Josephine that all the neighbors kicked.

* * *

This is no knock on greatness; 'tis a claim expressed in rhyme
That bank clerks have more dignity than the great men of all time.

Eugenics and War

By REV. MABEL M. IRWIN

WE are being told that now that this dreadful war is upon the world there is no time to be diverted into the channels of various reforms. That there is no use to talk of better forms of government while anarchy reigns. That there is no use to talk of better supplies and pure food laws while millions starve. That there is no use to talk of better housing laws while millions are homeless. That there is no use to talk of better labor laws and "safety first" devices while thousands tramp the streets jobless. That there is no use to talk of Eugenics—the breeding of a better race—when the men of the nations, the fathers of the race are called to rot on battlefield, leaving behind to again people the earth only the old, the lame and halt and the blind.

No use to talk of a better race in the face of a possibility of having no race at all.

* * *

All this sounds sane and logical if we are to admit that this old world of ours has really come to an end; if life has really gone out of it, and only the unburied dead—all unwitting that they are dead—are left to stalk about the land.

But and if—in our nation, at least—there still be signs that life is not extinct, that the blow, though fierce and the shock benumbing, still leaves us alive, then we must continue to have government and food and houses and labor and children born. If this civilization be indeed, like the civilizations that have passed, then must we go on to the building and the making of a new.

* * *

Eugenics has to do with beginnings, and if we are to have a new race born to take the place of the slaughtered, then we should see to it that a race be born that shall hate war as it shall love peace—even from its mother's womb. We should see to it that parentage be made safe, sane and clean.

A Profession for Women and Girls

By MRS. FRANK LEARNED

THE profession of a trained librarian is a work which is dignified, pleasant and fairly profitable for a woman. There are openings for women who have the special training and the abilities for technical and specialized work. For those to whom the more personal, or what may be termed the more human side of the work, appeals, there are many opportunities.

Girls who have a genuine love for books, and who know what it is to feel at home in a room lined with books, are those who readily enter the training schools which are established in connection with many public libraries.

Girls who are living in their own homes and whose parents are moderately well-to-do frequently engage in the work. They like it and are adapted to it, and not obliged to consider earning a large salary and yet wish to be more or less independent.

Salaries are not as high as in some other occupations, but a love for books and for the work, and the security of a perfectly proficient position, these are allurements to girls who are not inclined to work as teachers or in offices.

* * *

Although the higher executive positions are filled by men in most of the libraries, women fill the minor executive positions and are occupied in special reference work or in branch work. In the smaller branch libraries there is interesting work in coming in touch with the people and helping them in the selection of books.

In the children's department of the libraries in cities, useful personal work can be done in influencing and educating the taste of children who come to look at books or to take books away. The library assistants are sure to be those who have an aptitude for interesting and amusing children. Sometimes there may be a corner devoted to the "story hour," when a librarian is surrounded by a group listening to her skilful telling of stories, or pleasant recitation of poems.

The practical rudiments of library work can be learned in a training class connected with a large library, but a girl who is ambitious and prefers to learn exact library science, becomes a student in one of the library schools. Although less time is required for a training class student and no charge is made for tuition, a girl has more advantages as a graduate of a regular library school.

There are a number of these schools in the United States. The course is usually for two years, although only one year is required in some schools. The charges for tuition is moderate. The requirements for admission vary. At some schools a complete high school course, or its equivalent, is required, or a college diploma, or an examination in literature, history, French and German. At other schools students enter on a competitive examination. Candidates must be at least twenty years of age, and must have references as to character and ability.

* * *

A girl wishing to enter this field of work needs industry, accuracy, promptness, an intelligent, alert and receptive mind, Courteous manners and a womanly, dignified demeanor are essential to success.

Salaries depend on training, ability and experience. A beginner may not receive more than $30 a month; an experienced worker may receive $75 a month. The time for service averages forty-two hours a week; vacations average four weeks.

Shall Women Wage Earners —When Married— Give Up Their Positions?

"There Is No More Reason for a Poor Woman to Surrender a Paying Occupation When She Weds Than There Is for a Man to Give Up His," Says Dorothy Dix

By DOROTHY DIX

SHALL the woman who has followed a gainful occupation before marriage continue to follow it after marriage?

If she does, shall she support herself, or shall her husband pay her bills?

What is the effect on a husband of his wife making her own way, and thus relieving him of all responsibility of providing for her?

These are three of the curious new problems that have arisen to complicate the already sufficiently involved domestic proposition, and they are questions that must be more and more poignant as economic conditions force more and more young women out into the world to become wage earners.

No matter whether we like it or not, we have got to face the fact that very few fathers, in these days, earn enough money to support a family of daughters in idleness at home. So the girl must follow some gainful occupation before marriage. It is equally true that very few young men make enough money to support a wife who brings nothing to the family exchequer.

Marriage No Longer a Profession for a Girl to Fall Back Upon

The time has gone by when marriage was a profession that a girl could fall back upon when everything else failed. Her chances nowadays of marrying are slim, and growing slimmer all the time, simply because a poor youth can no more afford the luxury of a wife than he can of setting up an automobile, or a yacht.

It is nothing more nor less than the truth that Cupid has got to go out of business unless we readjust our old notions about a woman working out of her home after she is married. The ancient superstition, with no grain of common sense to back it, has held that it was some sort of a reflection and a disgrace to a man for his wife not to retire to the privacy of the kitchen as soon as she was entitled to write Mrs. instead of Miss before her name.

The adherence to this fetich is responsible for the growing crop of old maids and grumpy old bachelors, for by the time a man has killed off his budding fancy for three or four pretty and attractive girls and learned how to keep his affections in check while he is waiting to acquire a sufficient income to maintain a wife as a parlor ornament, he has gotten out of the notion of marrying at all. Also he has acquired habits and tastes that make him about as agreeable to live with as a fretful porcupine if he does marry.

The only way to get around this state of affairs and prevent marriage from becoming an exclusive pastime of the rich is to readjust ourselves to the conditions of our day, and permit the girl who follows a gainful occupation before marriage to marry the man of her heart while they are both young, and to go on following her trade or profession until they get a foothold in the world.

The man's salary alone means celibacy for both, or else starvation, and privation that will embitter the sweetest dispositions in the world and cause a couple to hate each other if they have been foolish enough to commit matrimony on a shoe string. But the wife's earnings added to the husband's means marriage under comfortable conditions that spell happiness.

No Woman Who Has Ever Earned Money Likes to Be Dependent

Certain it is that the average woman who has been in business likes it. She is enamored of her own pocketbook, and no woman who has ever earned money takes kindly to being dependent on anybody else, even her own husband, and having to go to him for every penny she spends. Likewise, it is not to be disputed that the woman who continues after marriage whatever occupation she followed before marriage and draws her weekly pay envelope therefor, is likely to make a much more agreeable and amiable companion than the lady who has given up her work at marriage and has had also to give up all the pretty clothes and indulgences that she was able to afford when she was a wage-earner.

Another argument in favor of the girl who marries a poor man continuing her work after marriage is the economic waste involved in her having prepared herself for a career that she abandons just as she reaches efficiency in it. The greatest obstacle that stands in the way of women reaching high salaried positions is the fear their employers have of their giving up their work as soon as they marry. For this reason many men refuse to take the trouble to train their girl employes for the positions the young women's abilities fit them to hold.

From a practical standpoint it seems absurd for a man to ask a woman who can earn a good salary to give it up when she marries, when he has nothing to offer in place of it. Why should a girl who enjoys office work and is proficient in it forsake that for the cook stove, that she knows nothing of, and loathes, and which wears her out more in one day than a week of office work will? What sense is there in a girl who can earn perhaps $50 a week giving it up to do housework that a $5-a-week girl could do better?

Poor Woman Has as Much Right to Work as Her Husband

As long as a man needs the help of his wife he should be generous enough to let her help him in the way that is easiest and most agreeable to her. When he does anything else it is merely a sop to his masculine vanity. He is willing to sacrifice her to save his face, as the Chinese say. He wants her to work for him, but hidden out of sight.

The only argument to be advanced against women continuing to follow gainful occupations after marriage is the complication that arises when there are children; but even here we have to choose the lesser of the two evils. There will be no babies at all if people can't afford to marry, and, even at the worst, the wage-earning mother can do a better part by providing for her children than the mother who has not the money to give her children the proper food and clothes.

There is no more reason for a poor woman giving up a job when she marries than there is for a man giving up his. Let her hold on to it as long as she needs it. She can retire to domesticity when she is able to afford it.

ALONE

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

To be alone in the wilderness—
Vast plains where no feet have trod,
Alone in the vast sky spaces,
Is to be alone with God.

But to be alone in the city,
Where human tides sweep by,
Nor stop to learn your heart
Or mark your longing cry;
In solitude, 'mid life and joy,
Alone to sob for breath—
To whine in the close-packed places
Is to be alone—with Death.

To be alone with the bigness
That streams to a star-lit goal,
Is never to be alone, but dwell
With God—and your own strong soul.
